Cotton Below 12 Cents
Biggest Steel Plant
Wonderful Fertilizer
Quieting Babies

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

JANUARY cotton fell below 12 cents yesterday. Other months reached new prices. That is something for a Republican administration to think about. Southern congressmen must tell their cotton growers. A combination of the farm bloc and the South can do many things.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB promises Baltimore, at Sparrows Point, the world's largest steel plant, making Baltimore, instead of Pittsburgh, the steel center. Pittsburgh is still to be heard from. Judge Gary and Mr. Farrell of "Big Steel."

Baltimore has the great advantage of being within easy reach, by water freight, of the high grade iron ore in Cuba.

HOWEVER the new process of steel making by electricity—diminishing or eliminating impurities — may change the whole industry more than Bessemer changed it. And the electric process might move the steel center away from the coal beds to centers of cheap hydro-electric power. That would interest California.

FARMERS will be interested in the world's most wonderful fertilizer, a new scientific production announced yesterday in Berlin. They call it nitrophoska, composed of phosphoric acid and potash.

It's a product of the German dye trust, and farm boards will want to know about it before placing their orders for the old type of fertilizer, that contains about a pint of real fertilizer in a wheelbarrow full of sand.

PROFESSOR MURDOCK CAMERON of Glasgow University showed Princess Mary, daughter of King George, how he could quiet a crying baby. In a maternity hospital he took up one crying infant after another, put it face downward on one arm, smoothed it with his hand gently, and the crying stopped. But he would not tell his secret.

MILLIONS of crying American babies for years were quieted with a dose from a bottle of so-called "soothing syrup," containing opium.

A soothing fortune was built on the syrup that killed thousands of babies. Doctors knew about it, and yet it went on until recently.

Many a rich woman turning her baby over to "my wonderful nurse" little suspected that the wonderful nurse's power was locked up in the poisonous soothing bottle.

One thing mothers should know—it is NOT natural for babies to cry, and it is NOT good for them.

Whimpering by a tired baby, before going to sleep, or any angry cry from a hungry baby waiting for food, means nothing. But hard crying means something wrong that should be righted.

POLAND complains to the League of Nations—France and Britain are worried about "German forts on the east Prussian frontiers." France is anxious that Germany shall not have an army.

GERMAN forts on the eastern frontier would be useful should the big Bolsheviki bear start on a conquering expedition toward the west. France, Britain and Italy may yet look to Germany to hold back these forces from the east.

RUSSIA is saving her money, her people are working, her wealth and population are gigantic. She knows enough to build flying machines and can call on unlimited Asiatic population if she doesn't want to have her own young men shot too quickly.

Western Europe should endeavor to organize for future trouble instead of keeping up the old jealousies. The German republic does not want war; knows there is nothing to it.

THE so-called "rebels" of Nicaragua have installed as president Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, who hurriedly appoints a cabinet, preparing to war on Uncle Sam. The latter requests Uncle Sam to come down and maintain order. As long as the rebels do not bother the Panama Canal we shall let those gentlemen fight it out. They didn't bother us when we had our civil war. Why should we dictate to them? A wise man said, "Nobody ever got poor taking a profit or minding his own business."

THE unpleasant difficulty about being a dictator resides in the fact that too many people are anxious to shoot him. This time it is Primo de Rivera's turn. Three that wanted to dispose of him have been arrested.

THE Bolshevik government continues war against Trotsky, once head of the Russian army under Lenin, now pushed from pillar to post. His last job was head of a government hydro-electric power plant. That is taken from him.

QUEEN MARIE IS HOME, GETS GREAT RECEPTION

Bucharest, Dec. 4—Queen Marie arrived home from her American tour at 1 o'clock this afternoon and was accorded a tumultous reception by the populace.

GIVES MOTHER'S ILLNESS AS REASON FOR THEFT

Cleveland, Dec. 4—"My mother is very sick. She may die. I wanted a dress for the funeral." This was the excuse given last night by John Gerstein, 19, when he was caught, police charge, in the act of robbing a clothing store here.

Thousands Expected at Santa Claus Party

ALL CHILDREN IN COUNTY AND CITY INVITED

St. Nick and Reindeer Will Arrive in Marion Next Tuesday

ALL SCHOOLS TO CLOSE

Central Junior High School Grounds To Be Rallying Point for Celebration

The largest pleasure seeking crowd that Marion has ever seen will throng the streets of this city next Tuesday afternoon and night.

The occasion will be the first daytime visit of Santa Claus to Marion. While the men in charge of the affair make no estimate of the number of children and adults who will be here for this history-making event, they know that practically every child in the county is going to be here and that most of them will not come alone.

While the interest of some persons in Santa Claus decreases a little as they grow older, it is not be wondered at, for they have never before seen Santa Claus. The childhood of the grownups in Marion County was denied that glimpse of the patron saint of children, which will be given to the boys and girls of this vicinity next Tuesday. The parent whose children are denied a chance to see Santa Claus for any but a very good reason will easily deserve the title of "heartless."

Schools Close

Every school in Marion County will be closed at noon Tuesday. School authorities have given their hearty approval of and co-operation to the Santa Claus day events. In order that every child might have the chance to take part in the parade the schools will be closed at noon.

The closing applies to the parochial as well as the public schools, for the parochial school heads have agreed that the children in those schools should have the opportunity of seeing Santa Claus, and gladly gave their consent to have the half holiday next Tuesday.

To Come in Autos

From the county school districts many of the children will come to Marion in the school automobiles, in which they ride to and from school. These machines will go in the parade. Then from the villages in the county hundreds of other children will descend on Marion with their parents.

The rallying point of all these children will be the Central Junior High School grounds, where the big Christmas tree will be placed. The parade in

BUILDING BODY PLANS TO BUY COURT FIXTURES

Furniture and Equipment for New Tribunal Quarters Being Considered

Arrangements for purchase of furniture and equipment for Marion's new Municipal Court, which is to start operating on Jan. 1, are being made by the building committee of City Council. Early next week Charles Schmidt and R. E. Prettyman, members of the committee, will go to Columbus with Judge-Elect William R. Martin to inspect furniture stocks and will probably make selections for the court.

According to present plans, the courtroom will be attractively equipped and the furniture will be of the type which will make it suitable for use for City Council meetings. All of the old equipment used in the Council chamber will probably be sold or used in other city offices.

At a meeting of the building committee, held Thursday night, final plans for arrangement of the first floor of the city hall, where the court and police department are to be located, were decided upon. Workmen under former Councilman J. E. Sexton are now proceeding with the remodeling.

HE'S AWFUL SICK AND WANTS SANTA

TWO letters, one from a rollicking, healthy girl of 10, and the other from a six-year-old boy, who has been sick in bed, reflect as nothing else could the spirit in which Marion youngsters are going to greet Santa Claus when he stops here next Tuesday.

For the information of Arthur and Virginia, it should be said that their letters have gone on to Santa Claus and he probably has them by this time.

Although he has been "awful sick" Arthur is a mighty brave and unselfish boy. His mother is dead. Parts of Arthur's letter to Santa Claus are given here and they tell how this boy is looking forward to visit of his friend, and hopes he will be able to see him.

"Dear Santa: I am six years old, but have been awful sick and could not go to school, but am better now.

"I do want to see you so bad. I want a wagon to coast on, but you don't need to bring it if you don't have plenty. I try to be a good boy and like every one."

Arthur, if there is any way by which you can see Santa Claus, that way will be found, for your name has been given to Morris Huhn, who is to have charge of seeing that the sick and crippled children have a part in the big children's party on Tuesday afternoon.

Then there is the letter from Virginia, who from her letter is planning on having a pretty "large" time while Santa Claus is here. Virginia says nothing can stop her from being in the parade Tuesday. She has been planning on it ever since it was first announced that Santa was coming. Virginia is so enthused over this visit and parade that she would like to have Santa for a guest of her own at her home. She wants the Eskimos to come along.

Virginia is very much interested in the Eskimos. She asks after their health and welfare. She says:

"Tell the Eskimos they ought to live with me. It is probably pretty hard on them for they are used to cold weather. If they lived with me I'd give them something cold. I'd give them a piece of ice to sit on, and a cold storage room to sleep in.

"I want a doll for Christmas, Santa, so will you please get me one? Thanks if you do."

Virginia, as has been said, is 10 years old.

These letters are expressions from but two of the thousands of children throughout Marion County who are going to be wild with joy next Tuesday when Santa himself comes to Marion.

NO TRACE FOUND OF YOUTH WHO PLANS SUICIDE

Police Convinced Body of Carlton Virden, 18, Still Is in Lake

Mystery surrounding the disappearance of Carlton Virden, 18-year-old Marion Business College student who is supposed to have committed suicide by drowning himself in Crystal Lake, north of the city, Thursday afternoon or night, remained unsolved today as city and county police continued their search of the lake in an effort to find the youth's body.

Police still are convinced that the body will be recovered from the lake, although some doubt has been expressed by others interested in the investigation. Possibility that the boy might have adopted some other means of self-destruction led parties of searchers to comb the grass and underbrush of the rugged land surrounding the lake but efforts were fruitless.

Rumors that it might not be a case of suicide resulted in members of the Virden family sending a message yesterday to Custer, Wood County, Ohio, where the only relatives of the youth, aside from those in Marion County, reside. This was done to clear up the supposition that he might have gone to Custer. The inquiry revealed, however, that he had not been seen by relatives there.

The search at Crystal Lake started early yesterday morning, immediately after young Virden's automobile was found on a driveway nearby with a note on the front seat indicating that he had committed suicide. The brief missive, in the boy's handwriting, read: "A purely suicide act because of excessive worry. Blame no one except myself. Every one tried to make it pleasant for me but it was useless. Carlton."

SAY CHAPLIN WILLING TO MAKE SETTLEMENT

Film Comedian and His Wife Haven't Reached Decision, Is Claim

Los Angeles, Dec. 4—"No, we have not reached any decision."

This was the statement made today by attorneys for Charles Chaplin, film comedian, and his wife, the former Lita Grey, following a conference to discuss the recent separation of Chaplin and his wife.

It is thought improbable that a reconciliation between Chaplin and his wife can be effected, according to friends of both. Meanwhile, Mrs. Chaplin has relapsed into silence, and her husband is equally reticient. Chaplin intimated, however, that he would fight for the custody of his two children. Mrs. Chaplin, according to one source, is seeking a property settlement. The amount mentioned was said to be a million dollars.

Chaplin is reported to be willing to consider a proposition.

SIX BANDITS HOLD UP ROCHESTER, MINN., BANK

Rochester, Minn., Dec. 4—Six armed bandits held up and robbed the Olmstead County Bank and Trust Co. here, of $16,000 in cash and negotiable securities today.

Two policemen, answering the burglar alarm, were shot down and seriously wounded by the guard left by the bandits outside the bank.

The bandits escaped in two cars.

WHO MURDERED THEM?

With the jury in the Hall-Mills' case declaring the defendants not guilty, the mystery concerning the murder of Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, choir singer, remains unsolved. Photos are the ones introduced as evidence in the trial.

Secretary Wilbur's "Gag" Order Sanctioned By Court In Fall-Doheny Case Today

Defense Suffers by Action; Intended To Show That Doheny Took Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, Contract To Help Nation at Critical Time

Washington, Dec. 4—The "gag" order issued by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, prohibiting Admiral J. K. Robinson, retired, from telling the jury of the Fall-Doheny trial about a confidential navy report in 1921 that Japan was preparing to attack Hawaii, was admitted into evidence today under a formal ruling from the bench.

Justice A. A. Hoehling, presiding over the trial of the former secretary of the interior and the millionaire oil operator, took 20 minutes to read his opinion. He held that the order itself was not prejudicial to public safety or affairs.

Blow to Defense

Defense counsel needed the Wilbur order badly, as in their opening argument they had promised to show the jury that Doheny took the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil storage contract only because he believed it was necessary as an adjunct to national defense in a time of imminent peril.

Admiral Robinson took the stand for further examination following the court's ruling.

Wilbur, likewise, was expected to refuse to purchase it on the ground its official revelation would injure International relations. Defense counsel are highly indignant, pointing out that there were it someone else than the secretary of the navy they would immediately cite him for contempt for withholding information.

Government Confident

On the other side of the case, government counsel would see the report placed in evidence for they are confident they could batter down the defense contention that Doheny was inspired by patriotic motives in making the contract.

"Why, that's absurd," said Owen J. Roberts. "At the very time these defendants were conspiring to make the contract, the disarmament conference was sitting just four blocks away. By the time everything was signed, international naval reduction was in effect. And it would have taken three and a half years to complete the Pearl Harbor contract. I really wish the defense could get its 'war scare' stuff out in the open."

ONE DELIVERY OF MAIL DURING CHRISTMAS DAY

All Departments at Postoffice Will Be Open Until Noon

Marion mail carriers must make one delivery on Christmas Day, and all departments of the postoffice will be open until 12 o'clock noon on that day.

This was the word given out by Postmaster French Crow today. It marks the return of the postal department to the usage of other years, when the postoffice was open on Christmas Day and one delivery of mail was made. Last year, however, the mail carriers were given a full holiday and the postoffice was closed.

Accumulation of mail over a two-day period is given as the reason for the decision by Postmaster General Harry S. New to have postal employes work on Christmas Day. Christmas comes on Saturday this year, and to close that day would mean a tieup in mail for two days. New claims, that would seriously hamper the service. So the postoffice will be open, and carriers will make one round of their routes.

CLEVELAND MAN WILL ADDRESS ELKS' SERVICE

C. J. Bannick To Deliver Memorial Talk at Grand Theater Sunday

Arrangements are complete for the annual memorial service of Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks at the Grand Theater, Sunday night, when C. J. Bannick, prominent attorney and member of Cleveland Lodge, No. 18, will give the principal address.

The general public is invited to attend and a large audience is expected. Included in the program will be two vocal solos by W. E. Orcutt, principal of the Central Junior High School, and special numbers by Dowler's Orchestra. The services will begin at 8 o'clock with a half hour prelude program by the orchestra.

Ritualistic ceremonies conducted by officers of the lodge headed by Exalted Ruler Grant E. Mouser Jr. will be an important feature of the program.

Spoke Year Ago

Mr. Bannick will have as his subject, "Know Your Order Better." He was the Elks memorial day speaker here last year and made such a favorable impression that he was invited to return for this year's service.

Carter M. Patton, local attorney, will deliver the eulogy in memory of the 144 deceased members of the lodge. Members who passed away during the year were Cornelius Breen, Charles E. Gompf, Dick B. Brann, John F. Williams, Lewis L. Elliott, Joseph E. Crow, John B. Luellen, Willis D. Fulton, Thomas F. Hurley, Michael J. Hagerty, James R. Donavan and George L. Moore.

AUTO UPSETS, WOMAN KILLED, TWO HURT

Fatal Accident Occurs at Columbus; Driver of Car Taken to City Prison

Columbus, Dec. 4—Death of Mrs. Isabelle Andrews, 28, and injury of two other persons occurred here today, due to an auto accident, which occurred when a car driven by Leroy Norris, Big Four fireman, overturned.

Mrs. Andrews' skull was crushed. W. H. Andrews, husband of the dead woman, critically hurt, is believed to have sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Joshua H. Steed, 25, Military Trail, Palm Beach, Fla., suffered scalp wounds and an injured back. His condition was deemed serious.

After being treated for minor injuries, Norris was taken to the city prison, pending investigation. All the injured were occupants of the machine which was totally wrecked.

6:00 p. m.—Dinner of Supts. Jesse Mason and C. B. Rayburn for the principals of all the district schools of the city and county.

7:00 p. m.—Parade, with Santa Claus, reindeer, bands and floats. On return to Central Junior High grounds community celebration will be held, with bands, Canto Club, Lecture Recital Club, and chorus of city and county school children leading in Christmas music and other songs.

JUDGE PARKER GRANTS MOTION OF KATZENBACH

Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens Smile as Ruling Frees Her of Charges

BROTHERS KISS SISTER

Widow of Slain Pastor Speechless; Prosecutor Simpson Is Displeased

Courthouse, Somerville, N. J., Dec. 4—Judge Charles W. Parker today nolle prossed the murder indictments remaining against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, her brothers, Henry and William Stevens, and their cousin, Henry De La Bruyere Carpender, at a hearing here today.

A verdict of "not guilty" was returned by a jury last night on the charge that Henry and Willie Stevens and their sister, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, were the slayers of Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

The indictment for the murder of Reverend Hall still was hanging over them when the defendants were brought into court this morning.

Attorney General Edward L. Katzenbach made the motion on behalf of the state to nolle prosse the indictments. He was representing the state in the absence of Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, who had failed to put in an appearance, although he was notified that the hearing would be held this morning.

Motion Is Granted

"At the April term of the grand jury, indictments for murder were returned against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, Henry Stevens, William Stevens, and Henry Carpender," said Katzenbach to the court. "Three of these defendants have been tried on the charge of murder and have been found not guilty.

"The state of New Jersey now moves for the nolle prossing of the indictments against all four defendants."

"The motion will be granted and the indictments nolle prossed," ruled Judge Charles W. Parker, who was sitting on the bench with Judge Frank L. Cleary.

Mrs. Hall, her two brothers and Carpender had been brought into the court a few moments before the judge's decision was announced.

Mrs. Hall smiled quietly as the ruling was made freeing her forever from the murder charges.

"Willie" Stevens beamed. He arose, shook hands with his attorney and told

COAL STRIKE IN OHIO APRIL 1 IS THREATENED

Commission Named by Chamber of Commerce Makes Findings in Report

MINERS REFUSING CUTS

Twenty Prominent Ohioans Favor Enactment of Anti-Strike Statue

Columbus, Dec. 4—An Ohio coal strike, starting April 1, next, was threatened today.

Assertion that the union coal miners of Ohio "must voluntarily agree to a wage rate that will be competitive with other competing coal districts," or coal mines in the Buckeye State "must begin operations on an open shop basis April 1, next, when the Jacksonville agreement expires," is contained in the report of the Ohio Coal Commission, made public here today. In view of the position taken by Ohio miners officials against reduction of wages of Ohio miners, prediction was openly made today that coal mines throughout Ohio will be involved in a strike next spring.

After an extended study of the Buckeye State's coal mining and transportation problems, the commission, appointed by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and consisting of 20 prominent Ohioans, has just completed its report. The findings and recommendations of the commission were unanimously adopted by the chamber's board of directors, it was announced.

Anti-Strike Statute

Pointing out that the United States Supreme Court has upheld the Kansas anti-strike law, the report favors enactment of an Ohio anti-strike statute.

The commission's report is interpreted as indicating that Ohio coal operators will refuse to renew the

FIND AGED MAN ASLEEP IN DITCH ALONG ROAD

Alexander Hill, 79, Located Near Kirkpatrick Home After Day's Search

Search for Alexander Hill, 79, who disappeared from his home near Kirkpatrick Thursday night, ended at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a party of neighbors found him asleep in a ditch along the road a mile west of his home.

He had wandered all night about the fields and roads in that vicinity. It is believed, and had been asleep but a short time before he was found. Neighbors said they believed he would have died of exposure had he been there throughout the night, and they are of the opinion that he wandered about until his strength was exhausted, then stumbled into the ditch and could not get out.

Suffers Cut

Hill suffered a severe cut over one eye when he fell into the ditch, and his hand was badly bruised. He was taken at once to the home of his son, Delphus Hill, with whom he has been making his home, and put under the care of a physician. A nurse was in attendance today, fear of pneumonia developing leading to this move.

Hill wandered from the home of his son Thursday night just after dusk, and while the members of the family were busy about the place. His disappearance was not noted for sometime, and then an organized search was started. Parties of neighbors tramped the fields and woods in search of him but without result.

Does Not Remember

The mind of the aged man held no clear recollection of his wandering, and he was unable to give any account of where he had been. Hill is a retired farmer. He has made his home in the vicinity of Kirkpatrick nearly all his life and is very well known.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE DESTROYS VILLAGE

Entire Leninskan District Rocked; Inhabitants Fleeing; Take Refuge Wherever Possible

Moscow, Dec. 4—Another severe earthquake has rocked the Leninskan district, destroying the village of Kapil.

Dispatches fail to state the number of casualties.

A prolonged succession of earthquakes in this area have been occurring for several weeks now and have leveled many villages, caused hundreds of deaths and left thousands homeless and suffering from exposure and want.

Inhabitants, wherever possible, are fleeing and taking refuge where they may find it.

CONDUCTOR ARRESTED ON BLOCKING CHARGE

Accused of Holding N. State-st Crossing Longer Than State Law Permits

C. J. Wise, conductor of an Erie freight train, was arrested by Officer McColley of the local police force, last night, charged with having permitted his train to stand on the N. State-st crossing and block traffic longer than five minutes, the limit specified by state law.

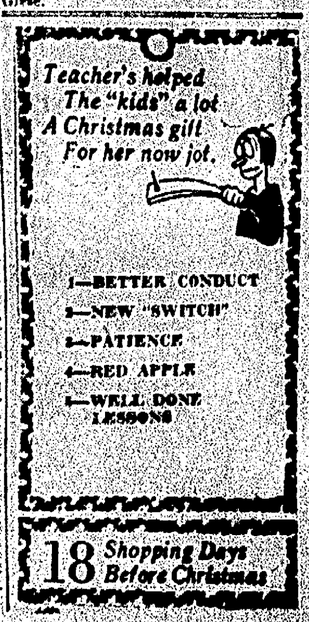
The freight train, according to McColley's charge, stood on the crossing and held up traffic from 6:28 until 7:10 last night.

Wise was released with orders to appear for hearing before Mayor Hazen within the next few days. The mayor is out of the city and is expected to return tonight.

FOSTORIA MAN IS HELD UNDER BOND OF $5,000

Cincinnati, Dec. 4—Robert Stesch, 28, Fostoria, Ohio, was being held to the grand jury today under $5,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter, in connection with the death of Joseph Giese, Cincinnati, on Nov. 20.

Stesch is charged with driving the automobile which struck and killed Giese.



BOWLING TEAMS BEING FORMED AMONG RAILMEN

Hocking Valley and Pennsylvania Workers Organize Joint Team Here

Bowling is now holding the center of the stage in railroad athletics along all lines operating through Marion.

While Columbus, Toledo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, and other big railroad terminals are able to organize leagues for bowling, local employes are too few for that purpose and are content with joining the Industrial League of the city.

The Hocking Valley and Pennsylvania have combined efforts in placing a team in the Industrial League here and have been steadily climbing in the standing after suffering a number of defeats at the beginning of the season.

The Railway Service in the Erie yards has no bowling team but is represented in the Marion Industrial Basketball League and promises to be one of the best quintets in the association.

During the baseball season, interest in local railway sport circles was centered on the teams in nearby cities which represented the various railroads.

At present one of the best features of the railroad magazines is the sport section and many employes state that they turn to the sport sheet before viewing any other part of the weekly or monthly issue of their railroad paper.

Veteran's Funeral

Funeral services for Patrick Hanley, 71, veteran Erie employe and known by all local railroaders, who died suddenly Thursday afternoon with apoplexy, will be held at 9 o'clock, Monday morning, at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

A large number of Erie employes and other local railroad men will attend the services, paying their last tribute to one of the finest men who ever served the Erie or any other railroad.

For 41 years, "Pat", as his friends have always known him, has served the Erie Railroad as a car inspector. Probably no other man was as well known in the Erie shops in this district as "Pat".

His death came as a shock to local railway employes, many of whom had been talking with him the day he was taken. He was stricken while walking along W. Center-st with his granddaughter, Mary Margaret Cusack, and all medical aid was futile.

Mr. Haley was one of the oldest members of the Erie Veteran's Association, organized here a few months ago.

New Coaches

Within a few days the Erie Railroad Co. will receive from the Standard Steel Car Co. of Chicago, a number of new up-to-date all-steel coaches, to be placed into service on the Cleveland, Youngston and Pittsburgh lines of the Erie, it was announced today.

The Erie Railroad Co. is gradually equipping all its divisions with the all-steel cars.

Say "What Price Glory"

THEATER AND MOVIE GOSSIP

as Good as "Big Parade"

BY RAY MURR

If you liked "The Big Parade" then it is a two-to-one bet that you will enjoy the cinema version of "What Price Glory!"

That is the word from the east where this Laurence Stallings picture unwound and revealed itself on the screen during the last week.

When "The Big Parade" was first shown the persons who review and criticize the films for the newspapers declared that this picture had stolen a considerable portion of the fire, and smoke, too, that would naturally go into "What Price Glory!"

Variety, the theatrical paper that usually has the "lowdown on most of the entertainment enterprises, in its current issue says that "What Price Glory" will be just as much of a hit as "The Big Parade."

The cast of "What Price Glory!" is said to be one of the fine things about the picture. Tough-looking Victor McLaglen is the Captain Flagg, Edmund Lowe the fast Sergeant Quirt and Dolores Del Rio is the vivacious little French flirt, Charmaine.

THEY'LL SUPPORT GOOD PICTURES

"BEN HUR", marvelously beautiful picture of intense interest and never-ceasing action, was shown two days in Marion this week. It played to a top price of $1.50 and yet the Grand Theater audiences were nearly capacity for all three performances.

In fact, so successful was the three-performances engagement that Manager Ed. Sharpless already has asked for a return engagement of three days in January.

Boxoffice figures cannot tell a lie. And, that means that theatergoers want and will patronize good pictures. Everyone knew what to expect in "Ben Hur." Those who were the least doubtful the first day heard from their neighbors that their doubts were without foundation.

There were countless features in "Ben Hur" that those who saw the picture can look back upon now with pleasure.

Was there ever a more beautiful Virgin Mary than Betty Bronson? And, in her beauty she spoke the pain of approaching motherhood. One felt that agony with her.

Colored photography was never more splendidly blended with black and white scenes than in "Ben Hur." Recall the Palm Sunday entrance of Christ into the city of Jerusalem and later The Last Supper.

Race scenes are the bane of many a picture, but one could view the chariot race in "Ben Hur" for an hour, so thrilling was its every scene.

Then, there was the tragic drama in the meeting, unbeknown to the son, of the Mother and sister of Judah, son of Hur.

Only one flaw in the picture—what harm would it have done to have had Christ portrayed in person, rather than just the Shadow, the Hand or the Feet?

DONALD AND VIRGINIA WED

THOSE Marionites who ventured to Columbus to see "No, No, Nanette" there when the musical comedy was presented by the company that included Julia Sanderson, Frank Crumit, Donald Brian, Ona Munson and Virgina O'Brien, may read with interest that Donald Brian and Virginia O'Brien were married in Detroit last Saturday. Brian played the part of the attorney, while Miss O'Brien was the maid.

In an interview months ago Miss O'Brien recalled to this writer that it was Donald Brian who procured for her her first job on the stage. The job in question was in a Victor Herbert's musical comedy and put Miss O'Brien in the chorus.

THAT WORD "ROMANCE" AND——

IN these days when the word romance is used mostly to describe True-to-Life Story Magazine tales its true meaning is often forgotten.

Owen Davis, who now numbers his plays above the one-hundred mark and who recently turned to the motion picture writing field, makes the statement that films are due to play an important role in this revolution against rot and the return of true romance.

"The highest mission of the theater is to inspire, to spin illusions that will create for the audience a land of 'if' that they knew could be true, phantastical as it may seem.

"For dramatists, after suffering the mistaken urge to portray 'realism' are now realizing that the only true romance will be accepted by the American public.

"Such raw realism as has been rampant on the stage for the past ten years is due the same fate as the slushy sentimentality of the latter art of the century.

"A new theater is going to be developed, a new drama characterized by tenderness without slush, sweetness without slush, truth instead of truck and real plays instead of platitudes."

AND, A BIT OF NEWS

PARAMOUNT is to release 39 productions after February 1 and in these fans will find a number of new stars. For instance, Clara Bow is to be found in "It," an Elinor Glyn story, and "Rough House Rosie;" Dorothy Gish in "London" and "Tiptoes;" Gary Cooper, a new western actor, in "The Last Outlaw" and "Arizona Bound"; Wallace Beery in "Casey at the Bat"; Ed Wynn in "The Perfect Fool"; Mildred Davis in "Rich Man, Poor Man"; and Lya de Putti in unnamed pictures.

And, then all the "regular" Paramount stars are to continue blooming or blight in forthcoming offerings.

Wallace Beery's next picture will be "Louis XIV" . . . Lila Lee has a new five-year contract with Cecil B. DeMille . . . Paul Whiteman's Band may play at Governor Al Smith's inauguration in Albany . . . "Miss George Washington" is to be Colleen Moore's next.....Lon Chaney has two stories lined up, one another gruesome role in "Frankenstein," and the other a straight role . . . Harry Langdon's next is to be "Long Pants" and it is nearly tailored now . . . Buster Keaton has finished "The General" . . . . And, that's all today.

These Improvements are Important

There are two general classes of motor car improvements. Those made primarily for their effect on the public—and those made primarily for their effect upon the car.

You will perceive at once that Dodge Brothers new five-bearing crankshaft, two-unit starting and lighting system, air cleaner and other recent improvements, are the sort that represent genuine value.

They are sound and substantial betterments, producing definite and marked results, and as such they are typical of Dodge Brothers methods and product.

CHARLES B. KING RENAMED HEAD OF STATE BODY

Ohio Manufacturers' Association Reelects Marion Man and Associate Officers

[illegible] B. King, vice president and [illegible] manager of the Marion Steam [illegible] was reelected president of [illegible] Manufacturers' Association [illegible] meeting held in Columbus [illegible] officers associated with Mr. King in the management of the association during the last year were also reelected. In addition to effecting the organization for the next year, important questions relating to Ohio industries came up for discussion during the day.

Marion manufacturers attending the meeting, in addition to Mr. King, were Frank A. Huber, president and treasurer of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and H. B. Walker, president of the Fairfield Engineering Co.

M. S. Halliday, who gave one of the outstanding addresses of the day's program, pictured business and industrial conditions at this time as unusually satisfactory and predicted that next year will witness continued good times, provided unforeseen difficulties do not arise. Mr. Halliday's address followed the association's annual banquet held at the Neil House, Thursday evening.

King Talks

A talk by Mr. King also featured the after-dinner program. He spoke chiefly regarding the value of the association to its members and urged manufacturers to take an active part in its program of work.

Steadily increasing taxes in Ohio were discussed by L. B. Webster, secretary of the association, who said that manufacturers should join wholeheartedly in the movement now under way to promote efficiency and economy in government and lessen the tax burden, which is becoming a handicap to general progress in all lines.

Talks were also given by Prof. H. C. Ramsower of O. S. U., who discussed the relation of agriculture to industry, William G. Rose of Cleveland, an official of the Cleveland Advertising Club and H. D. Sites, assistant secretary of the Ohio Manufacturers' Association.

Officers of the association, in addition to Mr. King, are T. R. Barnes of Mansfield, first vice president; Charles R. Clapp of Toledo, second vice president and P. O. Geier of Cincinnati, third vice president.

Officers appointed by Mr. King to serve in executive capacities are T. S. Huntington of Columbus, treasurer; Webb I. Vorys of Columbus, general counsel; Emil E. Watson of Columbus, consulting actuary; L. B. Webster of Columbus, formerly of Cleveland executive secretary and H. D. Sites of Columbus, formerly of Ashland, assistant secretary.

Election of officers took place Thursday morning at a session of the association's board of directors and the annual business session of the membership took place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the Neil House.

R. A. BEATTY FUNERAL TO BE HELD SUNDAY NOON

Prominent Morrow County Man Is Claimed by Death at Home

Funeral services for Robert A. Beatty, 79, former member of state constitutional convention and prominent grange and lodge man of Morrow County, will be held at 12 o'clock Sunday at the Beatty home near Cardington. Interment will be made in Glendale Cemetery at Cardington.

Mr. Beatty died suddenly at 7:10 o'clock Friday morning at his home, where he had resided for more than 50 years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary J. Shaw Beatty, 77, to whom he was married 56 years ago last January 1. Three sons, Samuel Ray Beatty, 457 Cheney-av, Marion, Clifford Guy Beatty, of Cardington, and Robert J. Beatty, of Columbus; two sisters, Mrs. Eva Curl and Annie E. Beatty; one brother, Amos Beatty, of Cardington, and three grandsons, also survive.

Mr. Beatty served as a member of the Ohio State Constitution Convention in 1912 from Morrow County.

OHIO GIDEONS TO PLACE 400 BIBLES IN HOTELS

Series of Services in Local Churches and Hotels Scheduled Sunday

More than 400 Bibles, which will be distributed in local hotels without cost to the management Sunday will be dedicated with special services by 50 Ohio Gideons at Epworth M. E. Church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Gideons from all over Ohio are planning to attend the program, which will open with a dinner at 6:30 o'clock Saturday night at Hotel Marion. Sunday morning prayer services will be held at the Kumfort Hotel at 8 o'clock.

During the Sunday School and Church services in the morning Gideons will go to the [illegible] respective denominations for services.

The dedication service will follow at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at Epworth M. E. Church. At 3:30 o'clock the delegates will go to the Salvation Army Hall for short services.

The program will close with two services at Calvary Evangelical Church with special programs both at the young people's meeting and the regular church service.

Several years ago this organization, made up of Christian traveling men, whose main object is to furnish each hotel room with a Bible, placed Bibles in all the rooms at Hotel Harding. Previous to that time they had been placed in other hotels in the city.

NEW LOWER PRICES remove the Chrysler "60" further than ever from any other light six in the industry

Nothing so surely emphasizes the unique value that Chrysler "60" offers as the attempt to compare Chrysler "60" performance with that of other cars in its price class.

The difference is so pronounced—in smoothness of operation, in wealth of power, in alert response to steering wheel and throttle—that anybody driving or riding in the Chrysler "60" recognizes it at once.

The model number "60" means a 60-mile-an-hour standard of performance. This, combined with proved long life of Chrysler products, is made mechanically inevitable by the unique Chrysler plan of Standardized Quality manufacture.

At its new lower prices, the Chrysler "60" stands forth more emphatically than ever—a value not even remotely approached by any other light six in the industry. A demonstration at your convenience will speedily convince you.

FRANK L. DURR ENROLLS IN GRADUATE SCHOOL

Marion Youth Preparing for Master's Degree in Engineering at Ohio State

Frank Lowell Durr, E. Church-st, a graduate of Otterbein College, is enrolled in the graduate school at Ohio State University, preparing for his master's degree in engineering.

Durr won several varsity letters while at Otterbein as a member of the wrestling squad. He was entered in the elimination try-outs for the United States wrestling team to take part in the Olympic games in 1924. After winning several preliminary bouts he was defeated in the final contests.

Although ineligible to try-out for the Ohio State mat squad, Durr keeps in condition at the University gymnasium preparing for the Olympic bouts in 1928.

DALY, JOHN H.

He was born at Niagara Falls, Canada, on July 4, 1850. The son of John and Catherine Burke Daly. He was united in marriage to Margaret Sheusey on Jan. 11, 1885. His widow and six children feel deepest the loss of a devoted husband and father.

Loved by all with whom he was associated, he was a good neighbor and always looked on the bright side of everything. Even in his last days, his kind and hearty laugh remained.

He was a member of Wesley M. E. Church of Marion, Ohio, and never failed to re-affirm his faith and express his assurance of a gracious victory through a living faith in a living Christ.

Good night, loved one, we will miss you,
And your smiles no more we'll see;
You are happy now with Jesus,
From your suffering body free.
Jesus had his mansion ready,
He, Himself, prepared it all;
Through Him, you were ready for it,
Then he gave a sudden call.
Sweetly rest from all your labors,
Far from every grief and pain;
We will often talk about you,
While we here on earth remain.
Then, at last when life is over,
We will meet you on that shore,
Where the wicked cease to trouble,
And the weary weep no more.
Good night loved one, still we hear you,
Pleading with us not to cry—
It is only good night, father,
For we cannot say Good Bye.

It was upon his declarations that a warrant was issued for the arrest of Erdman last Monday on a charge of murder, although at that time no corpus delicti had been found.

VIEW SUICIDE VICTIM IN CHICAGO MORGUE

Chicago, Dec. 4—Belief that the Clara Olson slaying mystery in Prairie Du Chien may be solved through identification of a suicide victim in the county morgue here, was advanced today.

The unclaimed body of a youth who killed himself in the Tremont Hotel here Nov. 5, said to resemble Erdman Sanford Olson, missing Gale College student, charged with the murder, is being held for further examination by those who know the fugitive youth.

Sheriff Harry Sherwood of Crawford County, Wisconsin, viewed the body today.

"I won't say that it is or isn't Olson," he said. "All I'll say is that I wish Albert—young Olson's father—was here."

After gazing at the body for 15 minutes, Sheriff Sherwood boarded a train for Prairie Du Chien to confer with the district attorney and the family of young Olson.

$15,000 SOUGHT IN SUIT FILED HERE IN COURT

Administratrix of Estate of Glenn Bailey Sues C., D. & M. for Damages

An amended petition seeking $15,000 damages from the C., D. & M. E. Co. was filed in common pleas court yesterday by Emma Beaver, administratrix of the state of Glenn Bailey. The youth was killed on March 2, 1925, in a grade crossing crash at Otis-st, when the machine he was driving was struck by a traction car. His mother, Libbie E. Bailey was killed in the same accident, and a petition asking $25,000 has been filed by Harry S. Bailey, administrator of her estate.

Hearing on the suit for damages in the death of the woman was started once, dismissed and a new petition filed yesterday. The petition on the death of the son was then amended and the amended petition filed today.

Seeks Division

Suit asking division of property has been filed by Fred Thompson against Wilhelmena Weyyand and others. The petition asks that the court set aside the share of the plaintiff, or order the property sold and the proceeds divided.

Unique Decision

Ordering the plaintiff to pay damages to the defendant was the unique decision handed down by Justice M. O. Stoll during the hearing of a damage suit following an auto crash, yesterday.

Simon Hackworth was the defendant in the case, and he was being sued by Mrs. Ida Salinas for $82.16, claimed as damages suffered in automobile crash at Lee and Silver-sts on Oct. 28, 1926. Elaine Esparso, daughter of Mrs. Salinas, was injured in the crash, and a suit has been filed in common pleas court asking $5,000 for her injuries.

Justice Stoll gave a verdict in favor of Hackworth and found damages for him to the amount of $65. It is expected the case will be carried to common pleas court.

New Home of Gardner Die & Tap Co., Cleveland, Nearly Ready

Work of preparing the Studebaker-Wulff rubber plant for occupancy of the Gardner Die and Tap Co., which is to move here from Cleveland within a few weeks, is progressing rapidly and will be completed soon, it was announced today. J. M. Gardner, president of the company, was here during most of this week supervising remodeling of the factory building interior.

Complete new electrical equipment is being installed and special equipment will also include oil burners which are to be used in the heat treatment process used by the company in manufacture of its products.

It is expected that machinery and other equipment will be moved here between Christmas and New Year's day.

NEARLY $100 CLEARED ON TWO SCHOOL PLAYS

Students of Ninth Grade at Vernon Heigths School Give Productions

Nearly $100, which will be used for improvements about the Vernon Heights Junior High School Building and especially for books to be added to the school library was cleared from two splendid plays which were presented by the students of the ninth grade of the school Thursday night before a crowded auditorium of the Central Junior High School Building. Miss Rhea King assisted by Miss Una Ackley and Alwyne Crane, all teachers in the school, directed the play.

Miss Catherine Cheney as "Mrs. Smith" and Lowell Guerlich as her husband, "Joshaway Alexander Smith", a farmer, played the leading parts in the one act comedy play "Just Like a Woman," with exceptional ability.

"The Whole Truth," also a one act comedy play was presented with two talented young people playing the leading roles, Miss Nyla Miller as "Amy Ross", a secretary, and Robert Akron as "Barclay," a chauffeur. Miss Emily Dale Wingett who acted the part of "Mrs. Hathaway", a companion, was also exceptionally well received.

The remainder of the students taking part, all of whom showed excellent ability were Misses Ethel Bray, Rosella Settles, Marybelle Berg, Harriett Martin and Richard Marshall, Lawrence May, Robert Atkinson, Richard Schweinfurth, Lowell Coulter and James Riley.

Let's look upon the bright side of the thing. So long as the nations of Europe haven't the money with which to pay, it's not unreasonable to figure that they haven't the money with which to fight.

Of course, if some of the Democratic patriots have been a bit careless in the matter of campaign expenditures, Democracy, in self-defense, may just about have to overlook the "glaring offenses against decency" committed by members of the opposite political camp.

Of Benefit to All Motorists.

Representatives of the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Kentucky met in Chicago, Thursday, looking to the enactment of uniform auto license laws of the seven states. The first six states mentioned were officially represented by their secretaries of state and Kentucky was represented unofficially. The Mid-Western Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators was organized with Fred A. Shortmier, of Indiana, president; Mike Holm, of Minnesota, vice president, and J. W. Calloday, of Iowa, secretary-treasurer.

The secretaries of state present agreed to recommend to the legislatures of their respective states a uniform law granting reciprocity on all motor vehicles save trucks operating on regular routes between fixed terminals. Such trucks are to be required, under the terms of the proposed law, to obtain licenses in each state through which they may pass.

The law proposed would be an excellent one and should meet with the favor of the legislative bodies of the seven states. It should be enacted by them without question. We incline to the view that the movement should not stop with the states represented in the new association. It should be a law common to all the country. The license of one state should be good in all others, and we believe the time will soon come when not only a uniform license law, but also uniform license plates, save in the matter of state names and a distinguishing state mark, will be in use the country over.

And while progress is being made in the matter of licenses and plates, there should be uniformity of route markings and traffic rules and signals throughout the country. It would add immensely to the pleasure and security of motor traveling and save embarrassment along many lines to motorists were traffic signals and traffic rules and regulations the same everywhere within the borders of the country. Then the citizen of any state would be just as well acquainted with the traffic safeguards and traffic rules and regulations of other states as he was with those of his own.

This is a matter which should be given the careful consideration of every automobile club in the land.

When Is a Crisis Not a Crisis?

For several months past more or less disturbing stories under Washington datelines have been run in the newspapers concerning this country and Mexico as a result of contentions between the two governments over the construction and application of Mexican land and oil laws. We have been given to understand that the situation had reached a point where the least this government could do would be to sever diplomatic relations with Mexico. This was not so stated, of course, but such was the inference to be taken from some of the stories wired from the national capital.

However, the announcement issued from the Mexican embassy and given publication Friday is hardly such as to justify the "grave forebodings" which we were told were entertained in some quarters. As a matter of fact, the Mexican embassy's announcement, headed "Plain Facts Concerning the Mexican Oil Laws," rather goes to show that such points for dispute as may exist between the two governments are not insurmountable. In fact, there seems to be very few points left in dispute.

The "juice" of the announcement is found in the statement that it is the intention of the Mexican government to apply its new laws and regulations, when they become effective next month, "preferentially" so far as foreign companies are concerned, without confiscatory retroactive enforcement of the provisions of the Mexicon constitution nationalizing natural resources.

The announcement thus made is an unofficial one, of course, but it is hard to construe it as other than an indication on the part of Mexico of a desire to resume formal discussion of the differences which have obtained between the two governments, and there can be no question but what the official recognition and ratification of the announcement by the Mexican government would eliminate practically all the grounds of dispute and pave the way to friendly understanding.

It begins to look as though the crisis anticipated for next month isn't to be.

Possibly the New York paper which resurrected the Hall-Mills tragedy after four years secured some publicity out of it, but was it of the kind that pays?

And now we learn that a long-distance jumper over in Massachusetts has been run down by a flivver. Guess the only hope for us true aristocrats of the land is to dig in.

The Washington Star has finally disclosed that President Coolidge's success as a fisherman at Paul Smith's wasn't so much. We were fearful all the time he was on vacation, as we sometimes hear it put out this way, that he would succumb to his well-known weakness for talking and scare all the fish away.

Another Haven for Wild Life.

Usually we get announcements of governmental activities from Washington, but one which will prove very pleasing to believers in the protection of our wild life came, Friday, from Winona, Minnesota. It told of the purchase by the government of 10,000 acres known as the Winneshiek, that area of Mississippi river bottom land half way between LaCrosse, Wisconsin, and McGregor, Iowa, which is known the country over as a fine hunting and fishing ground. The area purchased is the wildest part of the 300 miles of river bottoms extending from Wabasha, Minnesota, to Rock Island, Illinois. It has a length of fourteen miles, is three miles wide and is considered one of the most important areas of the entire refuge.

Announcing the completion of the transaction, Superintendent W. T. Cox, of the refuge said:

"It is one of the wildest portions of the overflow bottom lands. It is largely covered with timber, is filled with winding sloughs and is dotted with lakes and small marshes, the whole presenting a splendid combination of wood land, marsh and water surface admirably adapted to wild life.

"It is a stopping place for wild fowl in considerable number and a breeding place for local game to some extent. Fur-bearing animals are still found and conditions are more favorable there for fish than in most parts along the river. The Winneshiek in the past has attracted thousands of the leading fishermen of the nation, because of its gamey, small-mouthed bass."

We have not, in the past, paid the attention we should to the preservation of our wild life. Many specimens of it have been entirely obliterated, and the decimation of many other forms of it is fastly progressing. Such havens as this just taken over by the government will do much toward preserving many specimens of game and fish which were once plentiful, but have become very scarce. We have been almost ruthless in our destruction of game and fish in the past and it was time for the action taken. Occasional havens such as this throughout the country will preserve for future generations, as well as the present, such forms of wild life as have not become extinct and make possible their multiplication till their former numbers have been restored.

Poems That Live.

OLD IRONSIDES.

Ay, tear her tattered ensign down!
Long has it waved on high,
And many an eye has danced to see
That banner in the sky;
Beneath it rung the battle shout,
And burst the cannon's roar—
The meteor of the ocean air
Shall sweep the clouds no more.

Her deck, once red with heroes' blood,
Where knelt the vanquished foe,
When winds were hurrying o'er the flood,
And waves were white below,
No more shall feel the victor's tread,
Or know the conquered knee—
The harpies of the shore shall pluck
The eagle of the sea!

Oh, better that her shattered hulk
Should sink beneath the wave;
Her thunders shook the mighty deep,
And there should be her grave;
Nail to the mast her holy flag,
Set every threadbare sail,
And give her to the gods of storms,
The lightning and the gale!

AS THE CITY MAN VIEWS IT.

Babies Thrive Most in Sunlight.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

We are in the season of the year when every bit of sunlight should be utilized for the improvement of health. That member of the family who is in greatest need of sunlight is the baby.

Do you realize that sunlight is food and medicine to the infant? It is an established fact that sunlight will do for a baby exactly what cod liver oil will do. I am not going to attempt to explain why, but simply to state the bald fact.

There is an uncomfortable and serious disease babies have, called rickets. With this there is softening of the bone, and unpleasant deformities result. In its prevention and cure cod-liver oil is the chief remedy.

But nobody likes to take medicine, especially cod-liver oil, if there is some way to avoid it. Sunlight will do for the baby exactly the same thing that this nauseous medicine does.

However, I am not wishing today to discuss the cure of disease. I want to give advice which will tend to lessen disease. There is no one suggestion more valuable than to attempt to impress upon you the great value of sunlight for the well-being of your baby.

A great deal is being said these days about the effect of different sorts of window glass upon the transmission of certain rays of light. Some window glass is capable of shutting out those rays which are so valuable in preventing disease and building up in the body a resistance against certain diseases. I venture to predict that within the next few years everybody will hear a lot more on this subject.

It is important to put the baby in the direct rays of the sun, without the intervention of glass. Of course, this is a difficult thing to do in the winter time when the weather is very cold. If you can select a room which is flooded with sunlight at certain periods of the day, and capable of being heated so that it is warm enough for the baby, then you may open the windows even in winter time and expose the youngster to the sunlight. If the windows can not be opened, but the room can be kept warm, then you should spread down a blanket and let the naked baby play upon it.

I assume I am talking to sensible mothers who will not expose the baby unnecessarily to bad drafts and the danger of taking cold. The mother will use good sense, of course. I do urge, however, that every hour of precious sunlight the used for the benefit of this precious child. The more he has of exposure to direct rays of the sun, the greater is his prospect of health, vigor and long life.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Schurman, ambassador to Germany, tells Berlin America is prosperous because Americans work harder than any other people except the Chinese and the Hindus. He might have added that many of those Americans who worked so hard are dead. They didn't live to see the prosperity which their children inherited and the money which they spend. It is very doubtful if today's Americans work as hard as yesterday's Americans did.

If a man had started at the year 1 A. D. and saved a dollar a day ever since he would not yet be worth a million dollars. It is necessary to do more than save to be rich. If you seek financial success as your goal, you must have the courage to invest, to spend wisely, and the patience to wait on your investment. You must have an adventurous spirit as well as a thrifty one.

Speaking of goals, be sure and have one. Better a reasonably poor goal than none. If your greatest desire is to be rich, frankly admit it. Make riches your goal. Plan for riches. Make the sacrifices necessary to great business success. But be sure you really want to make wealth your goal. To have a goal is vital, fundamental. Don't start anywhere until you know where you are going, or at least where you want to go.

Today's Worst Story.

Some people can get comfort out of anything. Hit 'em on the bean, and they're glad you didn't hurt their hands, which might have mattered. And I used to know a lot of folks in the prairie country that ran into enough discouragements every week to make most ordinary folks quit cold, but they went right ahead and built up a great country.

Well, there was a fellow out there that I just heard about, and he was called Cheerful Jarck. He was a brakeman on the railroad, and the railroad wasn't making very much money. But Cheerful never had anything to complain about. He ran into hard luck every day, and when a kid was born and it was a boy, the doctors found out the poor thing was tongue-tied.

"Well, what'll that mean, Doc?" says Jarck.

"Oh, nuthin', only this particular kid is so tongue-tied that he never will be able to say anythin so's you can understand him."

"Jest natcherlly'll grunt an' mumble an' bawl everything up, hey?"

"Yes, sorry to say, that's about it."

"Good!" says Jarck, and he started to laugh. "I ain't never had much of a chance in this here railroad game, but anyway my son'll grow up to be a famous train-caller in a big depot."—Copyright, 1926.

Q. How fast do fir trees used for Christmas trees grow? C. T.

A. The average age of a Christmas tree is from five to ten years and the growth of the average Christmas tree is about ten inches per year. This varies with the different species.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Dec. 4—Nothing is quite so amusing in New York as those phoney highbrow teas where everybody gets a bit bloato. I just attended one. It started off auspiciously sedate and with the decorum of a Christmas cantata. There were discussions of early American furniture, Chinese ceramics, the technique of Jeritza, Oscar Wilde's last days in Paris, Byron's last days in Italy, the abnormalities of the modern drama, relativity and many other rather uptown topics.

The tea was evidently quite potent for somehow the conversation skidded into the realms of the Charleston and before one realized it the phonograph was switched on and an elderly gray-haired lady, who had been discussing Spinoza, demonstrated a few hot steps.

She was joined by several others and an affair starting off so Victorian suddenly became an "hey! hep!" soiree. The host a little later appeared with a towel playfully wrapped around his head and draped in a Navajo blanket to demonstrate the technique of a nautch dance.

Two other gentlemen would have doubtless shocked their boards of directors by giving a burlesque version of vaudeville strong men, upsetting in their caper a table of books and bric-a-brac with a thundering crash.

Ladies who had a half hour before sat primly in their chairs with hands folded palms up in their lap suddenly developed the spirit of hoydens and were romping and leaping about like those garlanded and thinly-clad maidens who fall dead at the end of the dance.

Teas these gallivanting days often take this sort of roystering turn. It is, of course, all good fun, but often rough on the furniture. I wanted to pay respects to the host before departing, but he was taking a little siesta in the kitchen sink.

Broadway likes to refer to Brooklyn as "the wrong end of Brooklyn bridge" and strangely enough the residents of Brooklyn have the same pitying attitude toward those living in Manhattan.

I have often wondered why the mere mention of Flatbush would transport vaudeville audiences into gales of laughter. It is one of the most peaceful of all the suburbs with residential sections as magnificent as those found anywhere. Then there are those towns with wild Jersey names, like Hackenback. Pleasant suburbs, but always good for a vaudeville laugh.

In the past year three fairly well-known youths of Broadway have chucked life with a gesture of disdain. One wrote a poem, lit a cigaret and turned on the gas. Another shook hands with a friend on a Broadway corner, said lightly: "I'll probably not see you for some time," and went to his room and shot himself. The third telephoned his sweetheart he had been called suddenly away and jumped out of the window. Broadway often has a way of curtailing life's drama to a curtain raiser. They come, they see—they yawn!

Big hotels face a problem in stilling a panic when there is a fire in the neighborhood late at night. Everybody wants to get out at once with their luggage. The greatest danger is among those who lose their heads and try to jump from windows. Old people, hotels say, are generally calmest in such emergencies.

As a matter of fact fire insurance men say a fire disaster—such as that of the Windsor hotel—would be impossible in the modern hotels of today. The only danger is in people losing their mental poise.—Copyright, 1926.

Who's Who and Why.

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

Charles Evans Hughes is hearing the evidence and arguments in the suit of six states to restrain what they regard as an excessive diversion of lake water by the city of Chicago for its drainage canal. He was appointed as special master by the United States supreme court to hear the suit.

With a varied and brilliant career, Mr. Hughes has been much in the public eye since his election to the governorship of New York state in 1907, a position from which he resigned in 1910 to become associate justice of the United States supreme court. Later, in 1916, he resigned from the supreme court on the day he was nominated by the Republican party as its candidate for the presidency. He received 254 electoral votes in the presidential elections of 1916 against 277 for Woodrow Wilson, although on the basis of the early returns he had been proclaimed president by many newspapers. When Warren Harding succeeded Wilson to the presidency in 1921, Mr. Hughes was appointed secretary of state and served as commissioner plenipotentiary for the United States at the international conference on the limitation of armaments which met at Washington, November 12, 1921. Among the other important governmental charges he has had since his defeat for the presidency are special assistant to the attorney general in charge of the aircraft inquiry in 1918, and chairman of the draft appeals board, New York City, 1917-18.

Mr. Hughes received his education at Colgate, Brown and Columbia universities and no fewer than thirteen of the foremost institutions of learning in the country have conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. He is one of the most outstanding lawyers in America and has served as professor and lecturer at Cornell university and the New York Law school. His standing at the New York bar brought him the presidency of the New York State Bar association in 1917 and 1918.

He was born at Glens Falls, New York, April 11, 1862.

Capacity House Greets School Operetta at Mt. Gilead

FIRST THREE GRADES TAKE PART IN PLAY

Twelve Seasons of Year Dramatized in Production, "Father Time"

Mt. Gilead, Dec. 4—A capacity house greeted the operetta staged by the first three grades of the Mt. Gilead public schools at Lovering Hall last night. The show was the nature of a dramatization of the twelve seasons of the year, showing their passing and was called "Father Time."

The plot is built around a mother, her daughter, Katrinka, and stepdaughter, Dobrunka. The mother and daughter ask unreasonable favors of the stepdaughter, such as sending her to the forest in the winter time after violets and grapes.

Father Time grants these favors to Dobrunka, but when Katrinka tries to gather these grapes, she finds that good things come only to those who have kind hearts.

Marysville, Dec. 4 — The regular monthly union service of Marysville Churches will be Sunday evening in the Methodist Church in this city, at which time the Union County Peace Declamation contest will be held. The services will begin at 7 o'clock and all contestants will be on hand 45 minutes earlier in order that arranging order of appearance may be taken care of. Every effort will be made by the committee in charge of the contest to secure judges outside of the county which will be impartial to all the contestants.

Nine young people from the various sections will deliver their declamations and will contest for prizes. The first prize will be a silver medal offered by the Ohio Council of Churches. The winner of this will also be presented with a $10 gold piece by the Marysville Ministerial Association. The winner of first place will also earn the right to represent Union County in the Congressional District contest which will be held on a later date. The Ministerial Association will also present a $5 gold piece to the winner of second place.

Effect of Religious and Educational Development On Civic Life is Exemplified at Village of Carey

Carey High School

Town Widely Known as Location of Famous Catholic Healing Shrine

BY GILMORE HIETT
State Editor, The Star

THERE are few villages of 3,000 population in the United States that are as well known in all sections of the country to those in the ordinary walks of life as is Carey, second largest municipality in Wyandot County.

The town's name has been carried to all parts of this country and the other principal nations of the globe as the source of various widely known standard products and as the location of one of the few authenticated healing shrines of the Catholic Church in the world.

Carey, as a town offers an example of the effect of religious and educational development upon civic and social life upon which economic experts might feast a lifetime.

Strong Churches

Since its beginning, Carey has been a village of strong church organizations and the majority of its population being of the staunch religious type of both Protestant and Catholic faiths. This high religious development is followed closely by an educational development of almost equal strength. Histories of the civilized world emphasize the fact that the church quickly brings the school to every community either directly or indirectly. The Christian religion never lost time in dispersing illiteracy. Hence, the educational facilities at Carey are more than adequate and the average intelligence of the children is higher than the usual plane.

The above facts established, the situation narrows down to the ability of the educated man to outstrip his less fortunate brother in the race of life. Carey's religious and educational atmosphere has placed it in an enviable position as a marketing and industrial center. In reference to the last mentioned distinction, it is a fact that this village of 3,000 people has greater industrial development than the majority of the cities of 5,000 population in Northwestern Ohio.

Tales of great length might be woven about the development of Carey's religious, educational or industrial life. In the following paragraphs each are discussed very briefly.

Rev. Aloys M. Fish, O. M. C.

Shrine and Church

The outstanding institution in the religious life of the community is the Catholic Shrine and Church of Our Lady of Consolation, not because of any overshadowing strength it has in the immediate community, but because pious pilgrims of the faith from all parts of the nation visit the shrine each year by the thousands.

The story really starts with the hithory of the Shrine and the Catholic Church at Carey. In 1867, Rev. E. J. Vattman was commissioned by the bishop to organize a parish and build a church there. A cornerstone was laid and a church started but never completed during his pastorate. Rev. Joseph P. Gloden, pastor of St. Nicholas, at Berwick, a rural parish was assigned to Carey in 1873. Under his leadership the little frame structure was completed. Father Gloden fulfilled a youthful vow when he secured permission to change the name of the Carey church from Et. Edward to "Consoler of the Afflicted," after the shrine in the Grandduchy of Luxemburg, Europe, that he had learned to love as a lad. The title is now commonly given as Our Lady of Consolation.

Obigins Image

Adding much to his happiness, Father Gloden secured a replica of the Luxemburg image and it arrived before the completion of the church structure and was placed temporarily in the Berwick church. Recalling the ceremonials observed in Europe at the original shrine, Father Gloden decided to give added reverence and pious atmosphere to the transfer of the statue from the Berwick church to its permanent home with a processional of the parishioners. On May 24, 1875, a company of over 1,000 formed in line and bore the image to the Carey church, a distance of seven miles amid the chanting of hymns and recitation of prayers establishing the present pilgrimage custom.

The regular observances of the processional and the pilgrimage have proved increasingly popular with those of the faith and at the last, held Aug. 15, 1926, a crowd estimated at 22,000 was in attendance. The next special service at the shrine will be held on Dec. 8 in observance of the feast of Immaculate Conception. The miracles in healing are given recognition among the churchmen as the result of faith, confidence and pious devotion.

Extensive Holdings

The widespread influence of the shrine is mirrored in the extensive property holdings of the church in the village. The image is now located in the basement auditorium of the brick church in the photograph above and will be installed in the main auditorium with the erection of the new vari-colored marble altar. The new church stands on the site of the frame structure, which has been removed to the other side of the street and is now known as the chapel. The interior of the large church is finished along elaborate lines. It is not completed and probably will not be for several years, the plan of erection of many of the European cathedrals being followed, that of taking the construction step by step.

Other modern structures on the church grounds are the rectory, with housing facilities for the resident and visiting priests, the Pilgrim House, operated by the Sisters of St. Francis for the convenience of Shrine visitors and pilgrims, and a Parochial school building attended by more than 150 students from the parish. All are constructed of red brick and are modern in every detail. Besides this group, there is the old church or chapel, the old frame school, now used for a religious article house with a large esplanade or pavilion adjoining, directly across the street from the church building, and a large frame structure used as a hall. Spacious grounds surround each of the buildings abundant with flower gardens and shrubberies.

Rev. Aloys M. Fish, O. M. C., the rector is largely responsible for the extensive development program adopted by the parish. He not only has visualized the possibilites of the service the shrine might render the church but has also personally directed the carrying out of the building program.

Other Churches

The four Protestant congregations of the village are equally as progressive in their way as those of the Catholic faith, though they are without a feature that attracts attention from the church-at-large. Contrary to the common belief the majority of the citizens of Carey are of Protestant faith. The extraordinary development of the Catholic holdings were made possible by donations and contributions from the hundreds of thousands that have visited the shrine rather than by the individual parish.

Three of the protestant churches require the services of a full time pastor. Two of the churches have carried out $60,000 and $30,000 building and improvement programs within the last two years. Churches are maintained in the village by the following protestant organizations: Lutheran, Evangelical, United Brethern and Methodist Episcopal.

Next is the educational life of the village. In this relation, the public school system holds sway with an enrollment of 500 students housed in three buildings. The parochial school as has been mentioned, has slightly more than 150 students.

Many Courses

The most modern of the four school buildings in the town is the high school erected in 1921 at a cost of $150,000. There are 150 students in the high school and they have special courses offered in manual training, Domestic Science, commercial study, agriculture, vocal and instrumental music. The commercial course was installed at the beginning of the present school year. The music courses are handled by instructors in use of wind and string instruments and voice culture of a biweekly school paper, "The Royal Blue and White," inaugurated at the start of the present year, dramatics, debates, oratorical contests, glee club, band and orchestra athletic program calls for football, track and basketball, with both boys and girls represented in the last named sport. Carey High school has won the track championship of Wyandot County and Northwestern Ohio for the last five years and had the winning team in the mile relay at the Big Six meet at Columbia last spring.

The school faculty of 18 teachers, eight of which are in the High school, is headed by C. E. Palmer as superintendent of schools.

From the business standpoint, Carey may be considered an industrial center. Approximately one-third of its population is employed in the manufacturing concerns of the village. As a town it has the same social and economic problems as the large industrial centers on a much smaller scale, however.

There are three porcelain factories in the town, engaged in the manufacture of National and Federal Porcelain, both nationally known products. There is a large lime factory located there making Monarch Lime, a nationally known product of particular quality for finishing work. There is a chemical factory, which recently started operations with a force of 150 men. A garment manufacturing concern is also located in the village.

Three railroads pass through Carey and offer splendid facilities for shipping for the surrounding farm communities. Considerable business of this nature is transacted.

The retail business district, while adequate to meet the needs of the village, has not reached a stage of development that is often found in towns of this size. The one organization in the village working for greater civic development is the Carey Kiwanis Club, which counts in its membership the leading citizens of the community.

BUCYRUS ORGANIZATION HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Gathering at Elks' Club Addressed by Munson Havens, Cleveland

Bucyrus, Dec. 4—W. A. Blicke introduced Munson Havens of Cleveland at the annual meeting of the Bucyrus Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening at the Elks club. Mr. Blicke and Mr. Havens became acquainted while both were touring the west the past summer. The speaker had as his theme chamber work.

Reports of the work for the past year were given by heads of the committees in charge for the past year.

Kenneth Beall, reporter for the Cleveland Press whose articles in that paper were so radical and practically untrue was also present. His friendly apology and cordial response to the many inquiries as to the cause of his writing such an item was quite graciously accepted by the men, 150 in all, and the rift was soon mended.

An industrial display from nine of the plants in the city which manufacture outging products called forth splendid comment. Those included were Ryder Brass Foundry, Bucyrus Plating Works, Shunk Mfg. Co., Warnock Co., Kelly Grave Vault Mfg., Kaynee factory, H. & H. Mfg. Co., Bucyrus Cut Glass Works and the Bucyrus Copper Kettle Co.

MRS. ALBERT WHITE HEADS MISSIONARY GROUP

Richwood, Dec. 4—Mrs. Albert White was elected president of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Protestant Church at their regular monthly meeting held Friday afternoon in the parlors of the church; other officers include, Mrs. B. F. McKinen, vice-president; Mrs. Clarence Kinney, recording secretary; Mrs. Mae Rosette, assistant secretary, Mrs. J. C. Langstaff, treasurer, Mrs. W. C. Temple corresponding secretary. Arrangements were made for the serving of a banquet for the football boys, which is being given by the business men of Richwood and will be given next Tuesday evening, in the dining room of the church.

AT BUCYRUS, JAN. 15

Bucyrus, Dec. 4—Joe Brush, famous illusionist and magician will be presented as the last number of the lyceum course of the Bucyrus schools at the school auditorium, Jan. 15. The Theodore Knox Concert Company gave a splendid musical program Thursday evening.

TRUAX SPEAKS AT IZAAK WALTON LEAGUE MEET

325 Persons Attend Third Annual Banquet of Kenton Chapter

Kenton, Dec. 4—Addressing more than 325 persons attending the third annual banquet of the Izaak Walton League chapters of Hardin county in Elks' home Friday night, Charles V. Truax, state director of agriculture, stressed the importance of increased propagation among wild game in Ohio adding that drastic changes should be effected in many state game laws reducing the game limit during the hunting season.

The state official also suggested a stricter fishing license law, in advocating a greater effort toward the preservation of wild game.

The banquet meeting, sponsored by the Kenton chapter with the assistance of the Waltonians of Ada, Forest, Mt. Victory and Alger, was the largest in the history of the chapter and plans are now being made to accommodate more than 600 guests next year.

Other speakers on the program last night were: Rev. C. L. Eastman, minister of Amherst, O., and big game hunter, and D. E. Stalder, district game supervisor.

As a result of discussion and conferences following the dinner last evening, a huge game preserve may be established in Hardin county by the various county chapters. Definite plans are to be presented soon by Dr. P. E. Decatur and Wheeler T. Jhonson, leaders of the Kenton chapter.

LUTHERAN CONGREGATION HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Marysville, Dec. 4—About 40 members, husbands and wives of Trinity Choir of Trinity Lutheran Church of this city, spent a very enjoyable evening last night at the Lutheran Parish House in attendance at the annual banquet of the organization. The affair was in the form of a Christmas party as could be seen from the beautiful decorations at the Parish House.

The following program in charge of a committee was given: Piano solo, Miss Irene Vogel; talk by Rev. A. W. Zell, violin solo, by Miss Frieda Troetschel; talk by Mr. John Bushmann, director; vocal solo, by Mrs. John Weidman. Reports were read and work for the coming year was discussed by the secretary and director.

NEW DOVER TEAM BEATS NORTH LEWISBURG CAGERS

Marysville, Dec. 4—Many Marysville and Union County basketball fans witnessed a game between New Dover, Union County basketball champions and North Lewisburg, champions of Champaign County last year, and saw the latter go down in defeat by a 25 to 4 score. New Dover, who went to the semi-finals in the Delaware District tournament last year lost only one man by graduation and will be a cause of worry to every team on their schedule this year. "Ab" Hutchison and Rittenhouse garnished most of the points for New Dover while every man on the North Lewisburg played a good game. The game was played in the Marysville armory.

BANDIT ROBS KENTON CIGAR STORE CASH BOX

Removes Skylight and Drops 15 Feet to Pool Table Below

Kenton, Dec. 4—Removing a skylight and dropping more than 15 feet to a pool table below, a lone bandit entered the East Side Cigar store in the uptown business district here, picked the combination on the store strong box and escaped with $146 in money and checks.

The footprint of a shoe, that had been covered with clay, was found on the cloth of the pool table onto which the intruder dropped, and is the only clue which officials have to work on. The fact that the safe combination was not destroyed leads officials to believe that the robbery was the work of a professional.

The robbery was discovered by night merchant policeman, J. J. Jenking while making his inspection tour of the business places. An unlocked door in the rear of the business room, led Jenking to make an investigation.

Climbing to the roof of the business place the thief removed a pane of glass from the skylight and then allowed himself to drop through. In escaping the bandit passed through the rear door.

The bigger part of the loot was money in bills and small silver. None of the merchandise was touched.

Officials have been furnished with the description of a stranger, who was seen loitering in and about the cigar store during the evening, in the hopes that he might have some knowledge of the burglary. The store is located two blocks from the police station on the public square.

ENTERTAIN LE CERCLE

Richwood, Dec. 4—Mr. and Mrs. Jo Howe and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Rapp delightfully entertained the members of LeCercle with a six o'clock dinner at the Howe home Thursday.

1686 BUSHELS GROWN ON TEN ACRE TRACT

20-Year-Old Son Comes Near Equaling 1925 Championship Crop

Kenton, Dec. 4—The Marshall family, tenant farmers in the muck lands known as the Hog Creek marsh, lying between Ada and Dola, now boasts of a world's champion and a near champion in the production of corn.

Not content with having broken all known, existing records in corn producing by growing 1601 bushels on a 10-acre tract last season, Ira C. Marshall set about this season to better his own mark—and he did. Official tests just completed by extension specialists at Ohio State University, Columbus, show that this year he grew 1686.8 bushels on a 10-acre tract.

Marshall's 20-year-old son came within a bushel of the 160.1 bushels an acre yield which won for the champion last year.

The field on the farm of Glenn Marshall, who has a 10-acre tract joining that of his father, totalled 1,395 bushels.

Through his remarkable feat the younger Marshall has been admitted to membership in the Ohio 100-bushel Corn Club, an honorary society fostered by the extension college. He is the youngest farmer ever to be admitted.

The father, president of the club, has been admitted for his third successive year and maintains the presidency.

Glenn Marshall is not on the farm this year but is a freshman at Ohio Northern university.

Both men today were elated over their remarkable achievement. "The record crop represents a lot of careful study and long days of hard, incessant work," Mr. Marshall said. "It is only natural that I, and my son, will attempt to do even better the coming season."

The combination enabling the production of such crops is rare. It was pointed out. The land about the Marshall home is a rich muck, underlaid with loam and tile drained every few rods. Usage of manure and fertilizer was especially stressed in preparing the ground, Mr. Marshall using six tons of manure and 300 pounds of a complete fertilizer to the acre.

Even though in hills and check-rowed the corn was planted thick and close each acre averaging more than 19,000 stalks on the acre as compared with eight or nine thousand stalks on the average corn field.

"Good seed, tested before planting, is one of the underlying secrets of our success," Mr. Marshall said. He used Clarage seed while the son used Woodburn's Early Dent.

The yields announced were on the basis of shelled corn containing 20 per cent moisture. On the basis of bushels of ear corn, Marshall's yield would be about 195 bushels an acre.

Specialists conducted the tests of Marshall's yield in accordance with the regulations of the Ohio 100-Bushel Corn club, and made two visits to his farm before announcing their final figures.

RUPTURE

Expert on Rupture Coming to Give Demonstrations of Amazing Method

Men and Women

See What This Method Does for Rupture

Ruptured men and women should attend the demonstrations given by the Rupture Expert at the Marion Hotel on Wednesday, December 8th.

He will show what the Schuiling Rupture Method does for rupture and why such wonderful results have been reported by so many thousands who have used it, old and bad ruptures.

Those who want to stop wearing a truss and who want relief from rupture should see the demonstrations which will convincingly prove why so many have recovered completely from rupture through the Schuiling Method.

Don't miss this chance to see the demonstrations and to try this method free and to learn what it does for rupture. Just ask at the hotel desk for the Rupture Expert on Wednesday, December 8th, from 10 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 6 to 8 in the evening.

Women with rupture, fallen stomach, large abdomen or rupture from operations should see the method which will be privately shown by the Lady Representative.

RILEY HOME SCENE OF CLASS ENTERTAINMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riley entertained members of the Willing Workers Class, Emanuel Baptist Church Thursday night at their home, N. Greenwood-st.

Members of the class enjoyed a Christmas gift exchange, after which honors in contests were awarded Raymond Donough and James N. Andrews. Lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. DeLauder were guests of the class. The meeting closed with the song, "Silent Night" and prayer by Rev. Earl Holliday, pastor of the church. The next meeting will be held Feb. 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Daniels, 966 N. Main-st, the regular January meeting being omitted because of a church revival which will be in progress at that time.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER ENTERTAINS HER CLASS

Mrs. Melvin Bechtle, teacher of the Friendship Sunday School Class, Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, entertained members of the class last night at her home, Wilson-av. Following a business session the hours were spent with music and contests, honors going to Miss Gertrude Snyder. Mrs. H. W. Richards and Mrs. Harry Lust were guests of the class. The next meeting will be held in two weeks.

ST. MARY'S PUPILS CELEBRATE FEAST

Parochial School Students Present Special Program in Building Auditorium

Pupils of St. Mary's Parochial School celebrated the Feast of St. Francis Xavier, patron saint of the pastor, Rev. F. X. Cotter, with a program yesterday afternoon in the school auditorium.

Members of the school orchestra opened the program with a number, "Marche Militaire", Schubert, and Miss Isabelle Cheney played a piano number, "Rigoletto" Verdi-Dorn. Miss Alice Louise Monnett gave the tribute to Rev. Father Cotter who responded with an inspiring address. Mosakowski's "Spanish Dance," was played by Miss Jennie Farrugio on the violin, assisted at the piano by Miss Juanita Miller. A piano duet, "Festival Procession March," Rathbun, was given by Miss Ida Mae Abe and Miss Mary Murphy and the program closed with a chorus number by the pupils of the High School.

BY EDNA DUTTON

WE of the alleged weaker sex have emancipated by leaps and bounds in the last few years, there's no denying but this last conventional bar that has been let down exceeds my expectation beyond measure of words. Haven't you always turned green with envy when you came into the office and the gang of fellows waxed warm on some bit of interesting news of the day, with their feet propped up on the desk, oh, so very comfy, or in case the boss had some problems to think out, find him meditating, in the only position conducive to meditation, with his hands clasped back of his head and his feet ensconsed midst the paste pots and pencils on the desk? Well, that privilege is ours now to be enjoyed to the nth degree, in fact it is being urged upon us by one Miss Francis Perkins, industrial board chairman of the New York Department of Labor, who comes out boldly and says she does it herself. She goes further to state that persons who have to do much standing find relief in raising their limbs above the head so that the blood will rush the other way, and that some factories employing girls have inaugurated five minute rest periods during which the workers are expected to lie down and with their feet supported on a kind of a bolster.

Now of course it might be well to lead up to this newest and seemingly near-unconventional mode of relaxation by bringing up the subject via the conversational route or leaving the printed word where it would fall under the nose of the one or more of your superior officers. If they register favorably, let your conscience be your guide.

MAN'S domain, and possibly the one domain which he hoped would be undisturbed by the swish of feminine raiment, has been invaded with the same relentlessness that he was nudged out of the barber chair. While women haven't availed themselves of the privilege accorded those who seek this particular sanctum they have no qualms about seating themselves with aplomp in the smoking compartment of trains. Being somewhat of a commuter on a train not exactly in a class with the Twentieth Century Limited, I find seating accommodations somewhat limited, and just recently I saw four most attractive college girls take their seats in a smoker with all the grace and dignity of the most conservative matron in a Pullman. Their fellow travelers were of no interest to them and to outward appearance the men were not disturbed by their presence. Who doesn't remember when one blushed a roseate hue at having to pass through the smoking compartment and to be caught peering into one branded you as a bold, bad creature?

BEAUTY may be only in the eye but it seems to depend on whose eye you are looking through, your own or Uncle Sam's. You may think you are a knockout when it comes to looks, but just try letting the wrold know about it through the U. S. postoffice and see what happens if you don't happen to deliver the goods according to specifications set up by a postal inspector. Down in the Rio Grande country, where a visit to the next county is only a matter of a few days' trip, a maiden was barred from the use of the mails because she proclaimed herself as being "lonely, pretty and 19." The postal inspector was ungallant enough to state unflinchingly that she was "about 20 and very homely."

THE professor from the New York University who so glibly announced that we are a race button pushers and lever-pullers evidently doesn't get up in advance of the cold, gray dawn and warm his dogs on a half-dozen blocks of cold pavement to get to his place of business. He should visit Marion. One feels like I imagine a burglar does on his first job. With the lights out at round about 7, and the sun not even peeping across the eastern skyline, one reluctantly sets forth, urging herself to be brave. Everyone you meet is just a big black spot until you are fairly upon them and then you're too scared to utter a sound. To be sure, there are lots of machines abroad, and they have their lights on, but aside from the small consolation that some one else is out it's small comfort to the pedestrian beating it for the day's day.

CLEVELAND WOMAN ADDRESSES MEETIN

Delivers Main Address At Parent Teacher Session at Junior High

Mrs. C. E. Kendel of Cleveland, president of the Parent-Teacher Association conducted the Marion County Parent-Teacher Institute which was held at Central Junior High School yesterday morning and afternoon, under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Council of the City Association. The attendance at the afternoon session reached 100.

Mrs. Kendel brought before the institute the value of the work that is doing and showed their relationship to the state and national organizations. She also stressed the need of cooperation between the three divisions of the association.

"The true value of our association lies not in its ability to finance," Mrs. Kendel said, "but in its sponsorship of such movements as a health clinic and of its cooperation with the teachers in doing a great work." She drew illustrations from her own experience with the McKinley School of Lakewood, Cleveland. She also touched upon the work which the association has accomplished since its organization in Washington, D. C. 30 years ago.

There was a large attendance from surrounding towns.

1926 Again Chevrolet's Greatest Year

In 1925 Chevrolet astonished the automotive world by attaining an annual production never before reached by any manufacturer of gearshift automobiles.

Yet, so spectacular has been the increase in demand for Chevrolet cars, that a new and even more brilliant record is the climax for 1926.

Thus, for two years in succession, Chevrolet has broken all its previous records and has set a new mark in automotive history.

This splendid achievement results from a steadfast adherence to the fundamental Chevrolet policy of building a car of the finest possible quality to sell at a low price.

That the vast majority of buyers now demand a car of this type—and that Chevrolet has been successful in building such a car—possessing the highest degree of smooth performance, smart appearance, and economical operation—is proved by Chevrolet's success during the year now drawing to a close. Come in and see this record-breaking car.

Calls Chicago Our Western Battlefront

Took Army-Navy Fellows Out There To See Actual Warfare

BY WILL ROGERS

WELL, all I know is just what I read in the papers. I am feeling as happy as I pen these few lines, as I have just finished an engagement on the western battle front, in Chicago the most dangerous sector we have, one where there is never a truce. Colt, Remington, and the Drupps are selling more ammunition to Chicago than they sell both sides in the war. The reason I feel so good is I had given up hope when I went in, that I would ever come out alive. But it's just one of the breaks of the game. I did. Chicago has reconciled itself to the killings now, and they don't pay any attention to them at all. It takes rather an unusual one to get into the papers any more. The Army-Navy football game was brought clear out to Chicago so the Cadets and Middy Blouses could use machine guns working in actual warfare. Hostilities among the gunmen were called off during the game as the shooting would detract from the gunmakers' work.

Chicago-Canada War Looms

Chicago is about to declare war with Canada over a drainage canal. Chicago had one canal and it turned out to be such a nice neat clean likeable sort of a product, in fact it was more like a babbling brook than a canal, it was a joy to go and sit on its banks of a warm evening, and watch the house boats of the beer runners, and the meat packers, all beautifully decorated. So they decided they wanted another one, so they dug them a drainage canal. Well the minute they did, why all of Lake Michigan started to run out of it. Canada woke up one morning and somebody had stole their lake. They said, "We don't mind you taking all the Rum, but don't you start in taking away one of our lakes. You are flirting with one of the biggest Industries". Lakes is one of the things Canada has the most of. Chicago said, "We didn't take your old lake. Half of it is ours anyway, and the half we took was only ours. We just dug the canal and the water used its own judgment. If it come our way it showed that it preferred that way, blame it on the water not on us."

We fought England once over tea. We fought in the late war because we heard it was going to be the last one, and we didn't want to miss the last one.

Bathing Suits for Armor

But the next war looks like the slogan will be for all Kiwanians and Rotarians. "Is Chicago to mire down or is it to be allowed to drain?" "Rally round the drain Pipe, Boys." "Are you going to let Canada tell you when to drain?" So the next war you will be in water up to your neck. Get a bathing suit and go to war with Canada.

But never mind Chicago; just let us thank them for missing us while there. I know how Mussolini must feel now after an extra bad bit of shooting on somebody's part.

Rival of The Wines

As I go to Press Mr. Kellogg has just dispatched Mexico another note. If Mexico don't hear from us every morning it's because we have run out of stamps. I bet you that Mexico in years to come can show more letters from Coolidge and Kellogg than Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Kellogg can. Even on Thanksgiving day when you would think everybody would be at home either eating Turkey or trying to think up some thing to give thanks for. But no, "Cal and Kel" dispatch their daily letter to Mexico, to tell them what laws to pass that day. Last week it was "if they didn't recognize the President of Nicaragua that we had put in, why we wouldent recognize them." Now this week we say, "if you don't let Americans own your land why we will break off relations with you." Will somebody please write and tell me and then I will shut up, why we are always picking on Mexico? We have got more Oil in this Country than we can sell. (The price is away off now on account of overproduction). We got more land then we can farm. It's overproduction that is keeping the farmers' price down. And Mexico's dealings with Nicaragua? How in the world did we find out where Nicaragua is anyway. Everytime you pick up a paper "the American Marines have landed at Nicaragua." There has been more Marines landed in Nicaragua than there has at the Brooklyn Navy yard. Why don't we send Marines to Liverpool or Cherburg, France? They was throwing rocks at us over there all last summer and we never said a word. Well that was all right. We shouldent have said a word. If anybody goes anywhere they ain't wanted, let 'em get hit. But what right have the Marines got settling an election in Nicaragua? I thought even at home our Army and Navy have to go to South America to get into Politics. Lord, if it wasent for writing letters to Mexico we wouldent need any Secretary of State. But will you please tell me because a Nation joins you as Mexico does us, does that give you more right to dictate to them than to Morocco or Monte Negro. If Mexico had an Army and Navy as big as ours, we would be as courteous and gentlemanly to them as we are to France and England. That's about all of that. I am, however, anxiously awaiting instructions from someone that knows.

Carmi's Back

Carmi Thompson just returned from the Philippines. We are in wrong with them now. Why we don't give 'em to them and come on home and get our little Army together and pass a law to never let them leave the country again. We took 'em away from Spain in '98, and said as soon as we get everything running all right we would give them over to the people. Well if you can't make a going concern out of anything in 28 years, why you better get out and give up. So that's that.

Old Ferdinand finally throwed a big enough fit that the Queen went over to pacify him. There aint any more the matter with him than has been the matter with him all the time. Well it is going to be a terrible blow to some American reception committees in those towns that she was supposed to visit and dident. They got all washed and cleaned up for nothing.

Just Too Big

Well this old Country is just a little too big for anyone to go clear across and back, and expect to keep on the front page all the way. What kind of dress you are wearing in Maudan, North Dakota, on the thirty-fifth day of your stay kinder loses its interest. Unless she had appeared barefooted in some town, it diden't have much chance making the big wire services.

About four or five days is about as long as anybody can really go on high (Publicity speaking) in this Country. Even the old Prince of Wales hung around about 10 days too long. So her departure leaves me about the only one touring America. Say, what do you know about my old friend Bill Brandon, Governor of Alabama, crashing the front page by letting a fellow nail him with some Hootch? "Alabama votes 24 Quarts for Haig and Haig."

You Never Can Tell

The paper says they found this Hootch there, and no one of Bill's party would claim it. That don't hardly sound like Bill, not claiming it. He wouldent do a thing like that. So I don't believe what I read in the papers.

We have just had to run back to England a Rum ship that we went out 140 miles on the ocean to capture. They are wanting it pretty bad when they go out 140 miles get some.

England just gave her Colonies something. They all seem tickled to death. But none of them know exactly what it was they received. When they get back home ther will find they havent got any more Liberty than they had before they left, but it sounds better.

Oh! Willies!

In the Hall-Mills case, the Lawyers were unable to confuse or baffle Willie Stevens in his testimony, so now he is spoken of as a "half wit." It's so unusual to get a clear-headed witness on the stand nowadays in any case, that one would naturally be considered "Unusual."

That's about all the news there is. Oh! France's Ambassador to America resigned. He suggested paying their debts, and he was recalled. He couldent have been recalled any quicker if they had paid them.

"Blaze of Glory"

BY FRED M'ISAAC

CHAPTER XIII

The very next morning I had the privilege of driving them to the golf club. The fellow had on a suit of clothes that Leon Errol might have worn in a comic opera, but he was big enough to carry it off. Rose was evidently enjoying his company, laughing as they came down the steps. She ignored me completely when I touched my hat, but said curtly when they were settled in the tonneau:

"Golf club."

They resumed their conversation, and I listened; I couldn't help it. Besides, the subject interested me, for they were talking of nothing but the Yale game of the previous fall.

"It broke my heart to miss it," Rose said. "At the last minute mother was taken sick, and I had to give up the trip."

"It was the most spectacular game I ever saw," he declared. "If ever a team looked beaten, it was Harvard until they brought Alden into the game. Of course, the fellow was covered with horsehoes. Nobody can catch a forward pass forty yards long unless he is the luckiest stiff alive, and, to prove it was luck, he missed a second one later in the game."

Sitting in livery, driving the car, I heard the man belittle my great play. He did not know that Stephens and myself had practiced that very pass at least five hundred times and I was catching nine out of ten of them.

"The reason that he was able to make his runs around the end was that Yale did not know he was fast, and Harvard had never used take kicks for end runs since the days of Maban. Naturally their ends were caught napping."

"I read in the papers that he was so fast he could get around any end in the world."

"You'll see the tackles bring him down next year, for Yale will have her defense ready for him. He's a pretty fast man, but he is vastly overrated and after all his reputation was made on fifteen minutes' work."

"And two solid years of preparation, you big mutt!" I said under my breath.

"You act as if you were sorry Harvard won," pouted Rose. "I wept for joy and I kissed Alden's picture in the Sunday paper."

I pricked up my ears at this. Imagine her kissing my picture and then not knowing the original. Of course snapshots of a man in football uniform don't look like much of anything, and it would never occur to her to connect that Alden with the chauffeur driving her own car.

"On the contrary, I was delighted," declared Anderson. "I celebrated that night like a fool, but I may be considered to have a pretty good knowledge of the game, and naturally I am looking at it from the standpoint of an expert."

The fellow was right enough, I had to admit it to myself. Half my success was the total unexpectedness of the attack built up by the coach in secret, but it wasn't human to enjoy being picked to pieces in front of Rose Abbott by a rotten football player like Anderson, through whom Yale had made two touchdowns.

I expect the back of my neck was brick red by the time we got to the golf club. I opened the door, lifted out Rose's golf bag, and then the big tramp threw his bag of sticks at me, and I had to carry both bags up the hill to the clubhouse while he continued to reflect upon my record as a football player.

I suppose he had Rose kidded into believing that he was the greatest guard of all time, when he hadn't even been mentioned for the second team of any All-American selection, the year he graduated.

Rose didn't have a word for me several days, though I taxied her guests and herself all over the territory. I sat on the beach and watched them in swimming. I saw them playing tennis. I could see the ex-guard showing her how to hold her driver at the tenth tee, which was not far from where the chauffeurs hung out at the golf club.

I smoked a cigarette in the doorway of the garage in the evening, and saw her white dress and his white shirt front moving up and down in the garden. Through the windows of the house I often saw her dancing with him to the music of the radio in the drawing-room, and I went almost wild with jealousy.

Helma came creeping around, presuming on the fact that I had taken her out once, and suggesting walks and rides and swims in the moonlight, but in the frame of mind that I happened to be in she didn't have any luck. I should be holding hands with a blond parlormaid while that overbearing fourflusher was making good with the only girl in the world worth while!

It was a bad sign that she didn't torment me any more. I longed to hear her say "Jeeves," just to show she still liked to mock me, but she had adopted the family practice of calling me William.

One particular night Helma seated herself beside me on the bench in front of the garage. We could see Anderson dancing with Rose while a jazz band in New York sounded as enticing, through the loud speaker on the radio, as though it were actually in the ballroom.

Helma saw that my eyes were on the couple, and she nodded her head solemnly.

"You do not like that Mr. Anderson, William.

"I'm not crazy about him."

"Me, I don't like him either. He is fresh."

"What are you talking about? He's in love with Miss Abbott."

"He may love her, but he can see other pretty girls. He likes me."

"You hate yourself, don't you?"

BY ADELE GARRISON

HUGH IS PLAIN-SPOKEN

HUGH GRANTLAND paid no attention whatever to my rather boastful revelation as to my place in Philip Veritzen's famous dramatic organization. That he had heard of me, I realized later from his comments, but when I had finished I felt that I had wasted my breath, for with no relevance whatever, he burst out vehemently:

"But do you not know Philip Veritzen's reputation? It is unthinkable that you should be associated with him in his work, and especially that you should be at his beck and call as—"

"As I distinctly was not today," I retorted. And don't you think you are speaking a little strongly about his reputation? There have been romantic stories about him, I know, but I think you will find that it does not blast a woman's reputation to have a high place in Philip Veritzen's organization, or even to be seen in public with him. For instance, my husband's own young niece, Mary Harrison, has been so fortunate as to attempt his attention, and he is now devoting much time to her advancement, with the prophecy that if she can stand the rigid training necessary she will become a world famous actress. Neither Mr. Graham nor Dr. and Mrs. Braithwaite, her guardians and relatives, are apprehensive that her reputation will suffer because of her association with Philip Veritzen."

There was distinct rancor in my voice now, for I felt that he had presumed upon my friendship almost beyond pardon in his comments. He was quick to feel my mood, and, I think, a trifle frightened at the sweeping condemnation he had used.

"Please forgive me," he said humbly. "Of course, I did not mean the things which you have just put into my mouth."

"Just what else could you have meant?" I demanded. "Your words were certainly plain enough."

"I know," he said, and there was something in his humility which suddenly stilled my anger. "I have no right to make so sweeping a statement upon the little I know of Veritzen. But some way the idea of your being subject to him in any way maddened me. You shouldn't have to suit any one's wishes except your own."

I wondered whimsically if he would have held the same theory had Fate decreed that he instead of Dicky should be my husband.

"Unfortunately, that is a state which I never heard of anyone attaining," I said flippantly. "At least I never expect it to come to me. And there really is nothing irksome in this job of mine. Besides it is extremely interesting."

"I can imagine it would be," he said, "and if my empty congratulations are worth anything, they are yours. But I confess my judgment is warped by my knowledge of what I saw in that man's eyes as he looked at you. He is madly in love with you, and surely you know what they say about him when he sets his heart upon anyone."

In Later Years of Life
Good Elimination is More Than Ever Important.
AS we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. Proper function cleanses the blood stream thoroughly. Sluggish function is apt to permit some retention of uric acid and other poisons. This tends to make one tired, listless and achy—to have drowsy headaches and dizziness and perhaps a toxic backache. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passages. Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills in this condition. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

TEABERRY ENTERTAINERS WILL BROADCAST FRIDAY

Next Friday night the Teaberry entertainers will present a musical geography on a few countries below the Rio Grande. The general impression seems to be that everybody in the vicinity of Mexico is hot headed and always ready to resort to the use of cold steel on the slightest provocation.

In accordance with this belief, the Teaberry entertainers will present some rag time music together with the soft Spanish melodies so well-known in the country.

METROPOLITAN SOPRANO SCHEDULED FOR DEC. 12

Frances Alda, Wife of Opera Manager, To Be Heard Over Station WEAF

Frances Alda, famous soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and wife of the manager, Guilio Gatti-Casazza, will broadcast over WEAF, New York, and chain stations, Dec. 12, in the series of Sunday night radio concerts sponsored by A. Atwater Kent.

Mme. Alda, whose radio concert last winter marked the completion of arrangements made by Mr. Kent with the Metropolitan Opera to broadcast the opera stars of the famous New York organization, believes radio is speeding the day when America, as in Europe, will have government subsidized opera.

Frances Alda is a native of Christ Church, New Zealand, and following her education in private schools at Melbourne, Australia, studied singing with Mme. Marchesi, in Paris. She made her operatic debut at the Opera Comique, Paris, in May, 1904. Her initial appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, was in 1908, and she has sung thirty or forty of the leading roles at the Metropolitan in addition to as many as eighty concerts in a season, throughout the United States.

MENDELSSOHN CLUB TO BROADCAST FROM WGY

Musical Body Organized 10 Years Ago by Its Conductor, Dr. F. S. Rogers

WGY, Wednesday night, Dec. 8, will offer to its listeners another program by the Mendelssohn Club of Albany, one of the leading male singing organizations in the east.

The Mendelssohn Club was organized about 10 years ago by its conductor, Dr. Frank Sill Rogers, and its concerts have been outstanding musical events in Albany, each year. For the last four years WGY has carried the music of the organization on its waves and these concerts have had a national hearing.

The splendid development of the Mendelssohn Club is largely due to the untiring efforts of the conductor. The programs are always full of surprises. The tonal quality of the tenor choir as well as that of the basses is unusual and the chorus of nearly seventy-five men has mastered that exceptional shading which is freely commented upon by listeners of former concerts.

The program, Dec. 8, will include Dvorak's "Goin Home," "Drake's Drum" by Coleridge-Taylor, "Morning Hymn," by Henschel, "Chorus of Bacchantes" by Gounod, "Morning," by Speaks and "The Angelus" by Herbert.

Household hint: Eat pork sausage every day for breakfast and repeat until it comes to a boil.

Broadcasting Trend Toward Tuned Radio-Frequency Model Development, Claim

Consoles Becoming Most Popular Cabinet Design: Fans Eliminating Batteries by Using Power Units Attached to Light Sockets

The trend of radio affairs seems to be in the direction of tuned radio frequency models having two and in some cases three stages of radio-frequency amplification with detector and ordinary stages of audio-frequency amplification.

Much development has been made during the past year or two along the lines of improvement in the audio-frequency amplification end of the receiver through the use of power tubes in the last stage or stages. The fact that power tubes are necessary in order to prevent distortion where smaller tubes are overloaded is now well recognized and the power tubes form an essential part of the modern receiving set.

The trend in cabinet design is decidedly toward the console models although there is still a very large volume of sales in the table types. The indication now is that the public has come to regard radio as a permanent fixture in the home and therefore feels that the receiving set should be properly housed in its own individual cabinet of the console or furniture type.

Power Units

Another very definite trend is toward the elimination of batteries through the use of power units which take the current directly from the light socket and make it suitable for use as A, B and C battery current. Without question the trend in this direction is growing very rapidly wherever power is available. Another year will see the most tremendous development along this line, probably obsoleting many thousands of receivers of the battery type. The advantages of being able to press a button and have an unfailing supply of current available at any time is eliminating the difficulties of worn out or run down batteries and the necessity for recharging batteries, which is a considerable problem in the hands of the layman.

The ban of wave lengths assigned in the United States to broadcasting ranging from 200 to 545 meters is now definitely inadequate to take care of the large number of stations that have already been established. More than 500 stations, with hundreds more contemplated, are now endeavoring to use some eighty-eight channels separated by ten kilocycles. The result is a chaotic condition only relieved by the fact that in any location it is always possible to receive several of the higher powered stations without severe heterodyning or interference.

Heterodyne Whistles

However, any night now, any place in the United States, the majority of the lines on the dial will bring in nothing but heterodyne whistles. This is a condition that should be corrected but which requires legislation. Many of the broadcasting stations that are now occupying the present band will necessarily have to discontinue or will have to be assigned wave lengths in a new band of frequencies undoubtedly below 200 meters.

It seems only fair that the pioneer broadcasters should be entitled to the use of wave lengths that they have prospected and developed and that newcomers should be compelled to develop new wave lengths with the idea that if the broadcasting on the new wave lengths justifies the public in purchasing apparatus to receive their programs, such apparatus will be made available by the manufacturers.

ATWATER KENT TURNS OUT MILLIONTH RADIO

Production Jumps from 6,628 in 1922-23 to 600,000 During 1926-27

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 4—The millionth Atwater Kent receiving set was turned out here at 4 p. m. yesterday. It was a six-tube, single-dial set, in the latest shielded metal cabinet. Simultaneously A. Atwater Kent made public his company's production figures for the past four years, showing that the current year, 1926-27, will record an output of 600,000 sets against 6,628 for 1922-23, the first year's record.

Mr. Kent himself gave the millionth set its final test upon its completion yesterday afternoon, in the presence of thousands of employes, friends and distinguished visitors at the Atwater Kent factories. The celebration included orchestra music, an address by Mr. Kent, a talk by Dr. E. J. Cattell of Philadelphia and others. In the evening a "family" party of 500 office and factories executives celebrated the arrival of the millionth set with a dinner dance downtown, as guests of their chief.

During the current year the Atwater Kent factories have had to be expanded rapidly to meet increasing demands, until a production of more than 5,500 receiving sets per day has been reached. It was announced that, in addition to the millionth set, 5,312 other sets were turned out Friday.

The millionth set will be retained here for exhibition at the plant but the first hundred sets of the second million, completed immediately following the millionth set, are being shipped personally to distributors for their retention. They are exact duplicates of the millionth set and each is marked with a gold plate, on which its number is certified over Mr. Kent's autograph.

STATION WSM TO CLOSE TO PLACE TRANSMITTER

Latest Model 5,000-Watt Western Electric Device Will Be Installed

Station WSM, National Life & Accident Insurance Company's station, at Nashville, Tenn., will close its microphone tonight for a month, while the latest model 5,000 watt, Western Electric transmitter is being installed.

The new transmitter will be in operation during the early part of January and will be the last word in radio equipment. WSM has always been well received by radio fans in this district but, being on a low wave length, has suffered more or less interference from other smaller stations. The installation of the new 5,000-watt station is expected to do away with interference.

WSM broadcast its inaugural program about 14 months ago and during its service to date has put many important events on the air. Local fans will anxiously await the opening of the new station.

PAT M'DERMOTT MURDER TRIAL OPENS MONDAY

Sordid Story of Vice and Political Corruption Expected in Evidence

Canton, Dec. 4—The opening act of another courthouse drama upon which the interest of the American public will be centered for weeks, was scheduled today to open in the Stark County hall of justice, Monday morning, before Judge E. W. Diehl, in Common Pleas Court, when Patrick Eugene McDermott goes on trial for his life for the murder of Don R. Mellett, young Canton newspaper publisher.

McDermott is the first of three men, including Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer, alleged figures in the Ohio underground liquor traffic to face trial in the sensational Mellett murder case.

Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, was assassinated as he parked his car in his garage early one morning last July, after attending a party with his wife and another couple. He had been warned repeatedly that his vigorous newspaper campaign against the underworld forces of Canton would bring down the wrath of the Canton "jungle" upon his head, but had ignored the threats.

The trial of McDermott is expected to open to public scrutiny a sordid story of vice and political corruption which held Canton firmly in its grasp, and furnished the setting for a flourishing underworld cabal, which Mellett battled with the zeal of a crusader, through his newspaper.

Despite denials by the attorneys who are defending the three men under indictment, preliminary legal skirmishing has obviously indicated that the defense seeks a delay in the trial of McDermott, and legal entanglements may yet cause a postponement.

The defense has moved to delay the trial until depositions of two important witnesses, the brothers of Pat McDermott, who live in Nanty Glo, Pa., can be obtained, claiming their testimony is vital to the defense and the witnesses are outside the jurisdiction of the court.

May Cause Delay

Another angle which may cause delay is a suit in Supreme Court brought by Prosecutor C. B. McClintock, of Stark County, in an effort to nullify an order by Judge Diehl, granting bail to the other two defendants, Mazer and Rudner. The court has continued this hearing until Monday, and it would appear that the necessity of their presence in Columbus to appear in this matter might be sufficient grounds for the defense lawyers to obtain a temporary delay at least in McDermott's trial.

Prosecutor McClintock, it is understood, has made arrangements for Attorney H. C. Pontius, who was Mellett's personal attorney, to appear in the Supreme Court case for him, leaving the prosecutor free to conduct the McDermott trial preliminaries.

MRS. IDA WOLBERT RITES WILL BE HELD MONDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Wolbert who died of complications of diseases Thursday at her home, 482 E. Farming-st, will be held at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning at the home and at 10 o'clock at the Epworth M. E. Church. Dr. B. L. George, pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial will be made in Marion Cemetery.

HOLD TWO CHARGED WITH TRAIN RIDING

Railway Detectives Conducting Campaign Against Loitering in Local Yards

Two men charged with train-riding last night were added to the list of about a dozen arrests made by railway detectives during the last two weeks in their campaign to prevent tramps from making the local railway yards a loitering place.

The pair taken into custody last night were William Zager, 30, place of residence unknown, and Carl Lewis, 23, of Macon, Ga.

They are scheduled for arraignment today before Mayor Earl M. Hazen.

264 TRAMPS LODGE IN PRISON IN NOVEMBER

City Lockup Becomes Popular as Night "Roost" for Knights of Road

Popularity of the City Prison as a winter lodging place for tramps is indicated in the monthly report of Desk Sergeant Wertz of the police department showing that 264 of the so-called "gentlemen of the road" were provided with free lodging on the hard cell bunks and cement floor of the prison during November.

This number of lodgers continues throughout the cold weather season, generally increasing as winter advances. Last year in November the prison housed 300 of the itinerants.

The report of Sergeant Wertz also shows that during the month the police made 55 arrests, made 10 searches for evidence of law violations, answered 207 calls and received 179 complaints.

Three automobiles were reported stolen during the month and six machines, valued at $3,138, were recovered.

In November of last year four autos were stolen and three recovered.

MOTORISTS MUST SHOW SALE BILLS TO GET TAGS

Auto Club Secretary Says Certificates Must Be Filed with Clerk

Automobile owners must present their bills of sale when applying for 1927 licenses and the records must show that the sale certificates have been filed at the county clerk's office before licenses will be issued, Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto Club, announced today.

Mrs. Gallagher will be in charge of the annual distribution of license plates, which will open at the Auto Club's office at the Harding Hotel on Friday, Dec. 10. The plates were received here more than a week ago and it was originally planned to start the sale on Dec. 2 but this plan was abandoned as a result of instructions issued from state automobile registration headquarters.

Five special clerks will assist Mrs. Gallagher in sale of the 10,000 licenses which must be distributed to auto owners before Jan. 1. Another consignment of 4,000 plates will be distributed in the spring.

CARDINGTON MAN DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Funeral Services For Robert A. Beatty To Be Held Sunday

Cardington, Dec. 4—Robert A. Beatty passed away at his home west of Cardington shortly after 7 o'clock Friday morning. His death was due to a blood clot on the brain and followed an illness of several weeks duration. However, his condition was not considered critical until last Sunday. He was a member of the constitutional convention in Ohio from Morrow County in 1912. He has made his home on the farm on which he died since his marriage to Mary Jane Shaw nearly 50 years ago. He held hope that he would live to celebrate their wedding anniversary which would occur on Jan. 1. He is survived by his widow; three sons, Attorney Robert J. Beatty of Columbus, Clifford Guy Beatty of Cardington, and Samuel Ray Beatty of Marion; three grandchildren, a brother, Amos Beatty; two sisters, Mrs. Eva Curl and Miss Ann Beatty, all of Cardington.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock conducted by Rev. F. W. Obee, former pastor of the Cardington Methodist Protestant church. Interment will be made in Glendale cemetery.

FREED-EISEMANN RADIO SALES HIT $2,000,000

New York, Dec. 4—The Freed-Eisemann Radio Corporation, Brooklyn, N. Y., reports sales for the month of October to have a retail value of over $2,000,000.

Along with this announcement comes the statement that the British subsidiary, Freed Eisemann Radio of Great Britain, Ltd., has obtained a license under the Marconi patents. The British company will not manufacture radio receivers, but will import them from the American plant.

Shovel Quintet to Battle Wesleyan Here Tuesday

Patsy's Patter

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

LOUIS (Kid) Kaplan suffered the first knockout of his career Thursday night at Cleveland at the hands of Billy Wallace. His defeat was a shock to the wise boys who follow the fight game. Billy Gibson, manager of the heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney, also handles the affairs of Kaplan. Billy thought that in Kaplan, a former featherweight champion, who resigned his title when he grew too heavy to defend it without reducing and weakening himself, he had a successor to Benny Leonard as lightweight champ.

Whether this, his first knockout, will permanently remove Kaplan from the list of possible champions, remains to be seen. The accounts of the fight seem to indicate that the kid was having the best of the battle for the first four rounds. There is a possibility that he became careless and that the knockout was a fluke. If so, Kaplan is likely to seek a return match, and if he is the game fighter that his six years in the ring and his more than 90 fights would indicate, will be one of the few fighters who have been able to come back and defeat the man who has knocked him out.

SIXTY-SIX years ago today, Dec. 4, 1860, the most remarkable bout in the history of the prize ring occurred. The fight was between J. Fitzpatrick and James O'Neil, and was held at Berwick, Me. It was the longest bare knuckle fight ever held in this country. The battle was called a draw at the end of four hours and twenty minutes. Imagine a couple of our present day gladiators going even one-fourth that distance.

IN Columbus next Thursday night, Clarence Eklund, the spectacled light heavyweight wrestling champion, will defend his title against Ira Dern, of Salt Lake City. Dern defeated Eklund a few months ago at catchweights, and came east with that victory as his recommendation. We saw him a few weeks ago in Columbus against John Kilonis, and he looked like the goods. But we saw Eklund defeated by George Kotsonnros a couple of years ago, and by Ted Thye at a more recent date. The human centipede got return matches with both of these men, and in the meantime had perfected counters for the very holds which defeated him. We want to be at the ringside next Thursday to see what he has as a counter for the slam hold with which Dern won his match at Ogden, Utah.

Eklund is the smartest wrestler we have ever seen, and that includes such masters of the game as Frank Gotch and Earl Caddock. We predict that the "human centipede" will show Dern some new tricks and will win his match. When Eklund gets too old to wrestle some one will defeat him at 175 pounds. In the meantime he will beat men who are much stronger, simply because he thinks too fast for the average wrestler, and because he has "four arms". Eklund has a pair of legs that are as much good to him as are the arms of most wrestlers. He is without question the greatest leg wrestler in the world today.

MARION'S fight fans will have to wait until after the first of the year to see the sport at home. The boxing committee of the Marion Athletic Association has been trying to arrange a fight for the latter part of this month, but one of the boys wanted for the main go is unavailable until later. Rather than put on a mediocre bout, the committee has decided to postpone the opening of the season for a few weeks.

YEAR in and year out stories have appeared in Boston sport pages containing rumors that William Carrigan was on the verge of re-entering the baseball arena, but on each occasion the Lewiston banker has resisted the temptation. In some respects his decision to return to the game is reminded of Percy Haughton's decision to take up the football reins at Columbia after he had stated that he would abide by the wishes of his wife and divorce himself from the gridiron sport. Carrigan's wife has felt that he should not return to baseball, but she knew of the old Red Sox manager's keen love for the game and finally was won around to his viewpoint. In taking over the Red Sox ruins, Carrigan is tackling just as formidable a task as Haughton faced at Columbia and there undoubtedly will be a friendly feeling towards the old Holy Cross catcher when he attempts to rebuild the shattered morale of the Boston Americans. Carrigan's return is attracting widespread attention, and it is a happy situation that he has accepted a two-year contract. The lure of competition keeps men young, and Boston fans are hopeful that Carrigan will fare as well with the Red Sox as the late "P. D." did with football at Columbia.

Independent Cagers Will Tackle Tough Opponents on New Shovel Gym Floor

Basketball Entertainment Galore Expected When Shovelers Appear on Court for Initial Game of Their Career; Both Teams Present Strong Lineups

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

Basketball entertainment galore will be presented Tuesday night on the new Marion Steam Shovel gym court when the Shovel independent quintet tackles the varsity team of Ohio Wesleyan University in the first game of the season.

It will be the first game of the 1926-27 season for both teams and will be the initial public appearance of the Steam Shovel independent outfit.

Ohio Wesleyan promises to have one of the best floor machines ever turned out in that college with Coach Ray Detrick, for the last three years coach of the Ohio Conference champion quintet at Mt. Union, in charge. Detrick replaces Van Alstyne.

Four Regulars

Four of last year's regulars are back on the job this season. Berno and Lamb, stellar performers at forward last year, will form a combination hard to break up, while Eddie Blickle and Helwig at guard will present a tough defense for any team. Blickle was the star grid man at Wesleyan during the past season.

In addition, local fans may have the opportunity of seeing Merle "Pokie" Morrison, former Harding High star, in action with the Ohio Wesleyan crew. Morrison promises to strut his stuff on the court this year and is already being cited as a bright prospect.

On the other hand, the lineup on the Steam Shovel quintet is hard to beat any place in Central Ohio.

Bacon At Guard

Manager F. W. Bacon, former star guard on the Wabash College five and veteran of several of the greatest professional outfits in the country, will be found at one guard post as the whistle blows for the start of the Ohio Wesleyan game.

"Baldy" Compton, for two years all-Ohio guard on the Wittenberg quintet at Springfield and at present coach of Harding High cagers, will hold down the other guard position.

At center Pough, measuring six feet eight inches in height, at present employed at the Steam Shovel Co., will be posted.

"Bob" Wilson and Dewey Bohyer will appear at forward. Bohyer was all-Ohio forward for two years while playing with Ohio Wesleyan and Wilson is well-known in Ohio Conference circles.

Others who may see action before the game closes are Coffman, Ward, Warden and Scoop Irvin.

The game will be called at 8:15 with a preliminary between the Steam Shovel engineers and office beginning at 7 o'clock.

LARUE BOYS WIN, AS GIRLS LOSE IN COUNTY GAMES

Morral and LaRue Quintets Divide Honors in Double Bill

Morral and LaRue high school cagers divided a double bill at Morral last night when the Morral girls defeated LaRue girls 9 to 8 and LaRue boys took the second game 25 to 17.

Led by Heller, left forward, who made six of the nine points recorded for them, Morral girls fought like demons and shattered the hopes of the LaRue team by winning by a single free throw.

Aikens, LaRue center, was largely responsible for the defeat of Morral boys. Aikens scored eight points and played a wonderful floor game. Mercer at center for Morral was the outstanding performer for that aggregation.

Morral girls lined up with Warner, rf; Heller, lf; Hartman, c; Harmon, rg; and Wilson, lg.

LaRue girls started the game with Shuster, rf; Campbell lf; Crowley, c; Metz, rg; and Cooper lg.

Morral boys' starting lineup was Swavel, rf; Houstod, lf; Mercer, c; Buck, rg, and Ashworth, lg. Cochran substituted for Buck and Brown went in for Swavel.

LaRue's lineup included Allen, rf; Burge, lf; Aikens, c; Noggle, rg, and Carr, lg.

In Myron E. Stevens the University of Maryland eleven has one of the best backs of any team performing on Southern gridirons this season.

HUBER AND STAR WIN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE MATCHES

Shovels and Logan Gas Still Tied for First Place

The Stars took three games from the Pennsy and Hocking Valley bowlers last night while Huber men managed to score two victories over the Postoffice crew in the final games of the ninth round of the Industrial League bowling matches.

As the ninth round comes to an end, Steam Shovels and Logan Gas men continue to hold a tie for first position, each having lost only four games out of a total of 27 played this season. Hubers rank second with only seven defeats and Displaymen follow with 11 downfalls. Star bowlers climbed to a tie with the C., D. & M. and Postoffice for fourth position during the ninth round.

The American Express Co. is unable to get out of the cellar, having won only two games out of 27 attempts. Marion County Lumbermen lack only one defeat of keeping the Expressmen company in their lowly position. Anthony follows the three tied teams in fourth place, Y-Indus comes next, and the Pennsy and Hocking Valley crew ranks third from the cellar.

Star Men Tied

Thomas and Gibson were tied for the title of high scorer for the Stars last night, Each had 185 points. Gibson's total of 528 was high. Wheeler was high man for the railroaders with 186 points.

Lantz was high man for Hubers last night when he bowled 185 in the second game. He was also high scorer in the match with 511 pins. Fetter, with 182 points, led the Postoffice crew. His three game total was 467.

RETAINS CUE TITLE

Philadelphia—Henry Matsuyana of Japan retained his title as junior 18-2 billiard champion of the United States Thursday night when he defeated Ary Bos of Philadelphia in a match which began Tuesday night and ran 59 minutes.

WRESTLER PLAYS APE-MAN IN FILM

George Kotsonaros, well-known wrestler who has appeared at Columbus on numerous occasions and has been seen in action by many Marion wrestling fans, makes use of his bulging muscles and gigantic frame in the part of "Zinga, the ape-man," in the feature "While London Sleeps," now showing at the Marion Theater.

Rin Tin Tin, the famous dog, is featured in the film but Kotsonaros holds the attention of a terrified audience with his maneuvers during the film. The huge Greek wrestler plays his part well.

EAST SIDE ACES HAVE TOUGH CAGE MENU NEXT WEEK

To Meet Kirkpatrick and Midways During Week

Marion East Side Aces will face tough opposition during the next two weeks. This fact was disclosed today when Manager George Peadon announced the schedule arranged for his stellar performers in the future.

The big game next week will be the battle with the Midway cagers in the preliminary round of the Isaly-Kinnear fray. The Aces will mix-up with the Midways for the first time and will furnish more opposition for them than has been provided in games so far this season. Neither team has yet been defeated.

The first game of the week, however, comes Tuesday night, when the Aces will journey to Kirkpatrick for a skirmish with the All-Stars of that village. Kirkpatrick was a runner-up in the Marion County tournament last year and will have the advantage of the home floor. Bill Vogel, measuring six feet seven inches in heighth, is the main cog in the Kirkpatrick machine.

LaRue Game

On Dec. 14, the Marion boys will travel to LaRue for a battle with Boyd's Furnitures of that city. The Furnitures feature several Marion players including Flanigan, Conwell and Ward. Manager Peadon is negotiating with Martel and hopes to meet them Dec. 16.

The Aces have two complete teams now with the addition of Ed Fisher, former high school star and center on the Fairfield Engineers. He will be seen as bat-off man for the Aces also.

The probable lineup for the Kirkpatrick game next Tuesday includes Arndt, Sargen, Barton, Gambol and R. Yazel for the Aces and J. Vogel, Lee, R. Vogel, Felmuth and Bibler for the Kirkpatrick crew. Peadon, Fetter, Lingo, Schorr and Fisher will also see action before the game is over. The starting whistle will be heard at 8:15, Tuesday night.

GIRLS BANQUET FOOTBALL TEAM

Letter Men Enjoy Banquet at Pleasant Inn, Last Night

The girls of Harding High School last night banqueted the fotoball letter men of this year at Pleasant Inn, on the Delaware pk. All letter men, Manager Merkle, Coach Sprout, Coach Compton, Supt. Jesse H. Mason, and Principal and Mrs. C. K. Marshall were in attendance.

Mr. Marshall was the chief speaker of the occasion and gave an account of the splendid record made in athletics at Harding High during the last four years. He also told the advantage of keeping in training, even during summer months, in preparation for the battles of the school team.

All letter men were called upon for brief speeches and blushingly responded. Coach Sprout and his assistant during the season, Coach Compton, gave short talks, as did Supt. Mason. The outgoing captain, Carroll Born, and newly elected leader, Charles "Tubby" Kramer, gave their opinions of last season and the future season.

The banquet was a fitting close to the successful grid season of the local footballers, who, after losing their first two N. C. O. League games, came back and won three and tied one for a tie in second place at the end of the season.

In order to win a football "D" at Dartmouth this year it will be necessary for a player to take part in the game with Cornell or Brown.

ALUMNI DEFEAT JUNIOR FIVE IN OVERTIME BATTLE

Central Juniors Suffer 25 to 22 Downfall Last Night

In one of the greatest battles ever staged on the gym floor of Central Junior High, the alumni of Junior High defeated the varsity by a score of 25 to 22 in a game featured by two overtime periods.

The battle was nip and tuck from start to finish and when the gun cracked for the end of the game, the scoreboard showed a 36 to 36 deadlock.

In the first three-minute overtime period, the Central Juniors dropped in a couple of field goals in neat fashion only to again lose the lead when the alumni five followed suit and connected for four points. The score was still deadlocked when the gun again cracked, this time each team being credited with 22 points.

When action again began, the Juniors calmly deposited the ball in the bucket on two consecutive attempts. Their rooters went wild only to again be downcast when the alumni looped a couple through the hoop, tieing the score. But, on this occasion, the alumni cagers did not cease hostilities. Another field goal was counted and then a free throw before the second three-minute period came to a dramatic close with the Juniors on the tail end of a 25 to 22 score.

Reed starred for the Alumni quintet and accounted for many of its points. Wilhelm and Hinklin were stellar performers for the Junior crew.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

Chicago — Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion, outpointed Tiger Flowers, middleweight champion, 10 rounds, and won the title. George Godfrey knocked out Cowboy Billy Owens of Texas in the eighth round. Babe McGorgery, of Oklahoma, and Chuck Burns, of Texas, drew, eight rounds.

Camden, N. J.—Tommy "Kid" Murphy, of Trenton, N. J., and Jackie Hindle, of Gloucester, N. J., drew ten rounds; Ted Coolidge, of New York, won newspaper decision over Willie Toney, of Baltimore, eight rounds.

Erie, Pa.—Jimmy Mendo, of Cleveland, won decision over Leroy Dougan, of New Orleans, 10 rounds.

GARGAN LEAVES FORDHAM

New York—Frank Gargan, coach for five years at Fordham, Thursday resigned his position. It is understood that Frank Cavanaugh, who resigned from Boston college at the close of the past season, is being considered for the job. Fordham has elected William Fenster, tackle, to captain the 1927 team.

Mickey Walker Dethrones Flowers as Middleweight Champion in Fast Battle

Walker Gets Decision from Referee Yanger Amid Boos and Howls from 10,000 Spectators; Mickey Cut and Bleeding While Tiger Remains Unscathed

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—While Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., was being hailed today as middleweight champion of the world, vague murmurings were echoing along the sports rialto of things decayed in Denmark.

Walker was awarded the decision over Deacon Tiger Flowers, of Atlanta, Ga., at the end of 10 stirring rounds at the Coliseum here last night.

The decision was made by Referee Benny Yanger, who, judging by the crescendo of booing that greeted his verdict was the only man in the place who believed Walker had won.

No one apeared more surprised than Jack Kearns, Walker's assistant manager. But Kearns quickly regained his aplomb and became voluble in declaring that Walker had won every round.

Flowers forced the fighting all the way, landed any number of telling blows and finished the terrific milling without a mark, whereas Walker was cut and bleeding and looked the part of a man thoroughly whipped. By what deductions Referee Yanger justified the decision that took the title away from Flowers remains a mystery to 10,000 spectators who paid a record gate of $800,000 to see the show.

Referee Yanger said he gave the fight to Walker because "Mickey did all the punching and Flowers did not close his hands."

The ninth round apparently had much weight with Yanger in reaching his decision. In this session, Walker clipped Flowers on the chin and the champion went to the floor. With an acrobatic flip, as if made of rubber, Tiger was on his feet before a count could even be started. He wasn't even dazed and tore right into Walker although he had not been hit. But Flowers was on the floor, and a knockdown is a knockdown.

It was a fast and furious fight every round. One minute after the bell had started, the deacon opened an old cut over Mickey's eye and from then on till the final bell, the left side of Walker's face was a mass of gore.

Tiger, it appeared, had a clean margin in four of the 10 rounds. Three of them are credited to Walker while the other three were even.

Flowers took the "bad news" cheerfully. He was the first to congratulate the new champion. As soon as Yanger raised Walker's hand, Tiger leaped to Mickey's side and smiling broadly, threw his arms around him.

DELAWARE WINS OVER ALL-STARS

Locals Defeated by Margin of 18 Points on Local Alleys

Marion All-Stars last night suffered defeat at the hands of the Delaware City bowling crew on the Y. M. C. A. alleys, losing by a margin of 18 points in the final check-up. The total score was 2,639, to 2,621.

Although they were defeated in the total number of points for the match, the locals were credited with two games out of three in the tilt last night.

Pehrson of Delaware led his teammates and Marion men in scoring when he bowled 256 in the third game. His total of 643 for the match was also high. Dugan was high scorer of the All-Stars with 228 points in the third game. McRill's total of 579 was the high number for the match among the Marion bowlers. A week ago, the All-Stars defeated Delaware on the Delaware alleys.

HUDDLE IN CAGE GAME

Princeton—The "gather around," half sister to the "huddle" has been introduced by the Princeton basketball team.

The Tigers were the first to use the "huddle" system under direction of Coach Bill Roper. So basketball fans were annoyed but not surprised when Coach Wittmer inaugurated the system for basketball.

COLUMBUS NORTH MEETS DAYTON STIVERS TODAY

Dayton, Dec. 4—Undefeated high school gridders will clash at the University of Dayton Stadium this afternoon when Columbus North and Dayton Stivers meet in the championship for the state of Ohio.

The Capital City invaders have taken Dayton by storm. Headquarters at the Gibbons Hotel are ablaze with the colors from the north.

The North High squad arrived Friday evening at 7 o'clock and were guests of their rivals at a theater party last night.

Ohio today can get no realizing sense from mere words, of the hardships by which their prosperity was earned. The tiresome journey, the steep mountain ways, the camping out and hardly a road to guide the immigrant and his family.

MUFFLERS and GLOVES FOR THE SHARP DAYS

ON windy streets these gay mufflers show a flash of warm color as they turn back the gusts.

Nothing subsued about these glowing plaids and checks on silks or wool. You'll see them on the avenue on chilly, biting days. And there's a wealth of brilliant patterns for sport, too $3.50

Here's a glove that's ever-popular. Of suede, kid or sturdy buckskin, with extra-long turn-back wrist for double comfort and protection. It's dressy yet practical enough for an outing, and its lamb's wool lining will laugh at the coldest night. In tans and gray $3.50

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

The fact that Rag of Tripe's father did complain about him being in a tub of ice water while we were playing pirate yesterday made me and Jubilee got up this morning feeling better than I would of if it had come. I would rather be under the sun than by my father, for my father is not like the sun, he does not keep all the one place, and it is warm, but a fella knows it is there. If my father had tanned me I would of wanted to set down in a tub of water.

When me and Jubilee went out to the barn doors the plank was still on the saw horses, and I thought maybe I could do something with it, so when I had covered the dummed brutes I took the tub of water was left in the pail and set on the plank, and when I had finished feeding my face and had snuck out a basket full of buttered pancakes for Jubilee, the bunch had came, and Jubilee had a cast net with him that he had used to catch shrimp with when they lived down south, and he knew how to throw it, but every time we throwed it it got covered with corn and made our fingers cold, so we went down to the pond and cut a big hole in the ice to throw it through like he wanted to.

We made it up that we would have a circus. We put the saw horses in front of the barn under the upstairs hay-door and nailed a couple of scantlings acrosst the end of them and made a hollow square and left nails sticking up all around and hitched the edges of the cast net over them and pulled it tight, and then we put the icy plank up with one end nailed to a sawhorse and the other end at the bottom of the door so that when we slid down it we would land in the net, and it looked like a real circus thing, and it was almost noon when we got it done.

I was going to be the first one down because it was my idee, but just as I was going to go in to climb up in the barn the little door opened, and Nibs, the dirty crook, hollered yoo-hoo, and jumped on the plank setting down, and the next he knew he went right through the net like it wasn't there and hit the frozen snow and ground so hard his eyes went around like pinwheels, and the dogs barked and the bunch hollered, and my ant come out and got me by the ear and drug me in the house, and I had to stay in and mind Annabelle all the afternoon.

I looked out of the window and saw Nibs walking out of the yard like he was a thousand years old, I didn't get licked when my father came home, but I most did.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

All about in Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountains, the animal people were cleaning up around their nest holes or hollow tree houses or burrows in the ground, getting ready for winter. Dried leaves were swept into piles, and some were carried into brooks, nests or hollow trees to make warm places for the little creatures to stay all winter.

Uncle Wiggily, and some of his forty seven little bunny boys and girls, had gathered great piles of leaves about the cellar walls of the hollow stump bungalow to keep out the cold, wintry winds which soon would be blowing.

"When winter comes," said Nurse Dipper Wiggly, the muskrat lady housekeeper, "I often wish I was in Florida."

"It would be nice, in some ways" agreed Mrs. Littletail. "But Uncle Wiggily loves it so in these woods I don't believe he will ever move away. We shall be warm enough, I think."

So they made the best of it, and got ready for winter. In the woods where there were many leaves that no one wanted the wind blew them into great piles together with bits of brush heaped up in rows so they looked like a fenced field.

"This is a bad time for fires," Uncle Wiggily told his little rabbit children. "Don't light any, or, if you do, see that the blazes are put out before you leave them. Throw dirt on the fires before you come away."

And Namby and Pamby, with Stoot-and Tooter and Nimble and Skimble, some of Uncle Wiggily's rabbit boys, who made little fires to roast carrots and potatoes were always very careful to put the blazes out before they went home to do their school lessons.

But some one was not so careful, as this and one day, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, having looked without any luck for an adventure, he smelled smoke.

"Some one has started a brush fire, I think," said the old rabbit gentleman. "I hope it isn't a big one, and I hope the wind will not blow it toward my hollow stump bungalow."

Uncle Wiggily hopped toward home as fast as he could, but the smell of smoke became stronger and suddenly, though it was a cold day, the rabbit gentleman felt a hot blast of air.

"The fire is coming nearer!" he said. Then he looked ahead through the trees and he saw where there was a long line of burning leaves and brush in the dry woods. For there had been no rain in a long time and no snow.

"I must go around the other way!" said Uncle Wiggily. But when he started to hop back he found that the fire had run through the dried leaves and brush so fast that it was now blazing on all sides of him. "Oh, dear, what shall I do?" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I am like an island, only I am surrounded by fire instead of water. I can't jump through it without getting burned. What shall I do?"

Just then he saw, leaping toward him, a wild rabbit who had no hollow stump bungalo and who did not care to wear red trousers, a black coat and a tall silk hat as did Mr. Longears.

"There's a big brush fire!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "It is all around us! What are we going to do?"

"We must dig a burrow down near the pond, and hide in the damp, wet earth," said the wild rabbit. "Then the fire will sweep along, over our heads, but we shall not feel it because we shall be down in the cool ground. Can you dig a burrow?"

"You just watch me!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and he began to paw with his feet, as did the wild rabbit until, in a short time, they had two deep holes going down into the ground where it was moist from the water of the pond. Uncle Wiggily might have gone in the pond, with only his nose sticking out and let the fire roll across, but the water was too cold. So he stayed until the brush fire had burned itself out. Then over the blackened ground, still warm, Uncle Wiggily hopped safely home and the wild rabbit went to another part of the woods.

"The fire is coming nearer!" he cried

So everything came out all right, and if the ice pick doesn't take all of the raisins out of the rice pudding to throw at the dinner bell, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and his icicle ladder.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Christmas trees will be on the market here next week, it was reported today. One carload of trees was expected here this week by Amicon Bros. but did not arrive. They will be early next week, and the prices will then be fixed.

Trees will sell for about the same prices as last year, despite the fact that dealers say they are not going to be as plentiful as they were last Christmas. The trees now on the road here are from Vermont.

Butter on local markets is responding to the price pressure of other cities and taking a slight upward trend. Butter fat prices jumped a cent yesterday, bringing the price to 53c. Some of the better grades of butter have taken a slight advance. On most of the larger markets in this section prices of butter have been gradually increasing for the last two weeks.

EXPENSIVE INDUSTRIAL STOCKS HOLD INTEREST

Baldwin Locomotive Is Center of Speculation in Short Market Session

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
Railroad stocks strong; industrial stocks firm; domestic bonds inactive; foreign bonds steady; grain fairly steady; copper steady; oil steady; cotton steady; rubber firm; sugar firm; pig iron firm; foreign exchange steady.

New York, Dec. 4—Speculative interest was largely centered on Baldwin Locomotive and other high-priced industrial stocks in view of the reports that Arthur Cutten and his Chicago associates had locked horns with the professionals in Wall-st and had carried off first honors in the speculative coup, which has been a 30 day mystery in the financial district.

Baldwin opened at 102, unchanged, after which the stock advanced in heavy trading to 161 and fell back to 150, at which price trading was quite animated. The Wall-st shorts had agreed to cover their short contracts on the best possible terms without raising the cry of a possible corner, according to well-founded reports.

As a group, the motor stocks displayed conspicuous strength and activity from the start. General Motors sold above 146 in active trading, while Hudson reached a new high for the movement at 49¼, and Chrysler, Studebaker and Hupp sold fractionally higher.

The approach to the year-end has stimulated calculations of the full year's profits and earnings of the industrial and railroad companies. On the whole, these will be favorable as compared with former years, though the last quarter has witnessed a considerable falling off in activities and income.

French francs made a new high record at 3.96 1-2 cents to the franc.

The advance in motor and industrial stock prices was checked the end of the first hour by a huge wave of profit taking and short selling which passed over the whole market and was particularly severe with the high priced issues which had led the spirited advance earlier in the week. The underlying strength of the market was shown in the manner with which these stocks were absorbed.

COYOTE DRIVEN FROM RANGES BY AIR MAIL SEARCHLIGHTS

Because the coyote detests artificial light, finding it bad for both his eyes and his business, he is slinking away from regions traversed by transcontinental air mail routes. Swinging beams of electric light marking the routes proved too much for him, and caused him to seek sections where there is more comfort, even if food is harder to get.

Three million candlepower revolving searchlights are placed at 25-mile intervals, and smaller flashes between, which arrangement renders two valuable services, one of them entirely unexpected, for the lights that guide flyers at night, also save the sheep of the ranges for miles around by driving away the coyotes.

reporters he was "glad it was all over."

To the end, Henry Stevens was grim and reserved, his expression not changed.

The well-groomed Carpender, a Wall Street broker, accepted the decision in a matter of fact manner.

When the crowd that has swarmed around the defendants moved away, both Henry Stevens and Willie Stevens walked over to their sister in the courtroom and kissed her. Tears came into Mrs. Hall's eyes.

Then Henry Carpender came to her and very quietly embraced her without speaking.

Mrs. Hall was speechless. Reporters went to her and asked her what she had to say.

"I have nothing to say," she said.

"All that can be said has been said."

Then all four defendants went into a side room to pose for pictures.

Mrs. Hall, who is free on $30,000 bail, spent the night quietly in her palatial home in New Brunswick. She took the verdict of the jury without manifesting the slightest emotion. She was pale, repressed, stoical to the end. She and her brothers came into the courtroom a few minutes before the jury filed in to report their verdict. The judge had warned against any demonstration.

Not a muscle of her face changed when the foreman said "not guilty." Her brother, Henry, was equally grave. Willie, however, smiled—he even forgot that he still was a prisoner and shook hands with Judge Frank L. Cleary, who was sitting on the bench with the senior judge, Charles W. Parker, as the little procession of defendants, led by Mrs. Hall in her sombre black, filed out of the courtroom through the judge's chambers.

Even to the very end, the trial was dramatic. It started dramatically and it finished that way. When the news flash on the verdict was announced, an enterprising reporter tried to get out of the packed courtroom to give the news to his paper first, disregarding the order of Judge Parker that no one leave while the verdict was being given. Two policemen fell upon the luckless newspaperman and he was quickly hustled, fighting all the way, up before the judge, who had solemnly warned that anyone disobeying his orders would be in contempt of court.

Another newspaperman rose at the press table and shouted his protest against the rough treatment of the reporter. The judge righted a bad situation by quietly admonishing the reporter and letting him go.

The verdict was returned at 6:40 p. m., five hours and four minutes after the noted case was placed in the hands of the jury.

It was said today that the elderly jurors took but two ballots and that the first one was 10 for acquittal and two for conviction. The jurors, after it was all over, still were agitated over the charges that they had been lax in their duty; that days ago they had made up their minds to free defendants, and that one or two of them had brazenly dozed during the trial. Last night, one of the jurors, John Young, a 60-year-old farmer, met Gilbert A. Van Doren, the 78-year-old owner of the Colonial Hotel, who made the first charges against the jurors, and a first fight was narrowly averted. It was at Van Doren's hotel that the jurors had been quartered.

With the famous trial over, an exodus of newspapermen, literary lights, telegraph operators and photographers has begun. The tired reporters for the most part were glad to leave, having filed approximately 12,000,000 words in the last month—the heaviest wordage of any news story in telegraph history, with the possible exception of the World War.

Somerville, emblazoned on the front pages all over the world for weeks and rather marvelling at what it was all about, returned to its peaceful ways, elated at the prospect of again being just plain Somerville, a quiet little town nestling in the green-topped hills of New Jersey.

GOVERNOR WILL NOT PROSECUTE FURTHER

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 4—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, will not be prosecuted further on the charge that they murdered Rev. Edward W. Hall and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, according to Gov. A. Harry Moore.

"I think the state has gone far enough," Governor Moore said.

"We are prosecuting, not persecuting. However, I am to confer with Prosecutor Simpson this morning and then I shall know better what course to pursue."

Before leaving for Somerville this morning to attend the bail hearing, Attorney General Edward L. Katzenbach telegraphed instructions that the prosecution make no opposition to the motion for bail. He intimated that the state would nolle prosse the remaining indictments.

SIMPSON CRITICIZES KATZENBACH'S ACTION

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 4—Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor in the Hall-Mills case, sharply criticized the action of Attorney General Katzenbach today in causing the dismissal of the remaining charges against the defendants.

"It has been done against my opposition; it has been done over my head, and I consider it another blow aimed at justice," he said.

MEMBER OF INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION SUCCUMBS

J. D. Clark, Dayton, Believed Victim of Embolism; Funeral Monday

Dayton, Dec. 4—Embolism is believed by physicians to have caused the death yesterday of J. D. Clark, chairman of the Ohio industrial commission, following an illness of a month.

Funeral services are to be held at the First Baptist church here at 2 p. m., Monday.

Former Gov. James M. Cox, Dayton publisher, who gave Mr. Clark his first two appointments to the industrial body, commenting on Mr. Clark's career said:

"He was a conscientious, faithful and able public servant. He had a comprehensive understanding, not only of the letter of the compensation law but of the spirit out of which it was born."

Mr. Clark had been suffering from dilation of the heart for a month, but during the last several days his condition had seemed much better and physicians and members of his family considered his recovery but a matter of time.

JUDGE C. L. JUSTICE GETS WORD OF DEATH

A message was received this morning by Judge Charles L. Justice, informing him of the death of Joseph D. Clark of Dayton, member of the State Utilities Commission, who was chairman of the Supreme Tribunal of the national Knights of Pythias organization. Judge Justice, who is inner guard of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, will attend the funeral, to be held in Dayton, Monday afternoon. He will go to Dayton from Toledo, where he is to give the Elks' annual memorial address, Sunday.

G. B. ORR GETS VERDICT IN LONG FOUGHT CASE

Victorious in Damage Suit Brought by Arthur Dennison Four Years Ago

After being heard three times in the Marion County Court of Common Pleas and twice in the district Court of Appeals, the $9,000 damage suit brought by Arthur Dennison, a former Green Camp Township resident, against George B. Orr, 187 Olney-av, has finally been decided in favor of Orr.

Notice that the defendant had won the suit was received by his attorneys, Carhart & Warner, today from the Court of Appeals at Lima. The final hearing took place before that tribunal on Nov. 5.

The damage suit followed injury of Dennison when a motorcycle which he was riding collided with Orr's automobile at the intersection of Bellefontaine-av and Cusic-rd, a short distance west of the city, on May 30, 1922. Amputation of Dennison's left foot was necessary following the accident.

The case was fought back and forth through the courts for four years. The first trial resulted in a jury disagreement and in the second Dennison was given a verdict of $1,000.

Orr's attorneys carried the case to the Court of Appeals where the verdict was reversed. In the next hearing before the Court of Common Pleas, Orr won and Dennison then appealed. The hearing before the Appellate court followed on Nov. 5 and resulted in the verdict for Orr, announced today.

John H. Clark was attorney for Dennison, who resided on a farm near Green Camp at the time of the accident but is now living in this city.

Mr. Orr is a former member of the City Council from the Third Ward.

JUDGE SCOFIELD DENIES DIVORCE IN HOCH CASE

Alimony Hearing of Wife To Be Held Next Saturday

Divorce was denied Paul D. Hoch by Judge George B. Scofield in Common Pleas Court this noon at the close of the hearing of the suit for legal separation filed by Hoch against his wife, Helen M. Hoch.

The hearing was held on both the petition for divorce filed by Hoch and the cross-petition filed by his wife. The hearing started Thursday, taking two and one-half days for the presentation of evidence by both sides. Hoch called 26 witnesses and the defense 20. Most of these were neighbors and relatives of the couple, who related incidents happening since their marriage in 1923.

The decision on the custody of the child has been referred to Probate Court, which has jurisdiction over the child, the first complaint of Mrs. Hoch having been filed in probate court in 1923, and an order giving her custody of the boy being issued then. Later the custody of the boy was given Mrs. Emma Hoch, the child's grandmother.

Hearing on the alimony asked by Mrs. Hoch in her cross petition will be held next Saturday by Judge Scofield.

wage scale contract provided for in the Jacksonville agreement next April first and that Buckeye State operators will insist upon a contract for lower wages for the miners or operation of their mines on an open shop basis.

Claim that Ohio coal operators operated "at a loss and with a steadily declining volume of business during the last three years," is embodied in the commission's report.

The report states that millions of dollars of investment in Ohio coal mining operations have been lost and that "nothing but a radical change from present operating conditions will revive the industry which has been in a state of collapse for the last three years."

Lack of Discipline

"The real trouble with the present Ohio coal situation is lack of discipline, poor efficiency and a non-competitive wage scale," the report reads. "Unless these difficulties can be overcome, either by the introduction of the open shop or voluntarily by a radical change from the present attitude of the miners' union, there appears to be little, if any, chance of returning the Ohio coal-mining industry to its former relative status.

"If the miners' union will not adjust its wage rates so as to meet this economic condition, then the open shop is the only alternative to permit the Ohio coal industry to function," the report continued.

"The unreasonably high labor rates in the Ohio mines are responsible for the unnecessary burden on the public, according to the report."

the body. During the afternoon the work was taken up by Sheriff James A. Deal and Deputy Sheriff Vane Ireland, who covered practically all of the lake area before nightfall.

The sheriff and his deputy used specially constructed wooden telescopes which enabled them to see to the lake bottom in all except the deepest parts. This was possible only up to depth of between 20 and 30 feet and as the lake is estimated to have a depth of 65 feet at some points it was impossible to make an absolutely thorough search.

Continue Hunt

The sheriff and his aid resumed their hunt at the lake this morning and plan to continue for several days.

Chief of Police Thompson and members of his department are assisting in the hunt. Both city and county officers continue to express the belief that the body will finally be found in the lake.

It will be between seven and nine days before the body of the supposed suicide will come to the surface, officers say. The rise would be gradual, however, and it is expected that the body will be near enough to the surface to be seen within three or four days.

Dragging the lake was contemplated at first but this plan was abandoned when it was learned that it would be useless, due to the extreme roughness of the bottom.

Despondent, Claim

Despondency over the sudden death of his father, a year ago today, combined with worry over finances, has practically been established as the motive for young Virden's suicide, should it actually be suicide. Supposition that a love affair might be the real cause has been practically eliminated by relatives and friends who say that the youth had no intimate girl acquaintances.

Young Virden disappeared shortly after noon, Thursday, and search for him was started Thursday night when he failed to return to his home at 631 Miami-st. He and his step-mother, Mrs. Clemmie Virden, had moved to the Miami-st residence from their former home at Mecker the day before his disappearance.

Seen by Cousin

He was last seen at the junction of Center and Main-sts while driving north in his Ford sedan. This was at noon, Thursday, when C. H. Bower, 497 S. Main-st, a cousin of the boy, passed him at the crossing signal light.

At 3 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, young Virden telephoned to the Merchants' Transfer Co. here in regard to a piece of furniture that had been left at his Mecker home during the moving. Efforts to find the place where the youth telephoned from have thus far been without results. Relatives of the boy today inserted an anvertisement in the Star in the hope of locating the source of the call.

the afternoon will start from that point. The children who will form the guard of honor for Santa Claus, and the children who will ride on the floats will report to the office of the principal in the building, Mrs. Louis Uhl, president of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs will have charge of these children. Other women under Mrs. Uhl will see that the children are well taken care of while they are at the school, and during the parade.

Parking Space

Arrangements for parking space of the machines which will bring children into Marion from the country have been made at Central Junior High. Pearl Sells, superintendent of janitors of the public schools will have charge of the parking space. All school busses are to use Campbell-st drive into the north side of the school grounds. Oak-st will be closed during the afternoon.

The executive committee, which will meet Santa Claus and have charge of all activities in Marion was named today. It consists of Addison Bain, George E. Frank, W. L. Warner, Wilfred Schaffner and Roy D. Moore. This committee is to meet Santa Claus and will have charge of all the activities while he is here, and see to his comfort while he is in Marion.

Afternoon Bill

The afternoon affair is primarily for children of the city and county, but at night the entertainment will be for the parents and others. Equally as many persons are expected to turn out for this as for the parade in the afternoon. There will be another parade of Santa Claus and his reindeer through the streets, and after that a community sing at the school grounds, where the Christmas tree will be lighted, and the music groups of the city will lead in a concert of the favorite Christmas carols.

The only change in the program at night is in the time, the parade being scheduled to start at 7 instead of 7:30.

Guard of Honor

Names of the children from the city schools who will be in the guard of honor for Santa Claus have been selected. They are:

June Evelyn Thomas, 139 Grand-av, Vernon Heights; Betty Jane Miller, 825 N. State-st, N. CHICAGO HAS NEW RING SCANDAL AFTER FIGHT

Newspapers Attack Decision Awarding Flowers' Title to Mickey Walker

Chicago, Dec. 4—Mickey Walker, of New Jersey, will not become middleweight boxing champion of the world, as a result of the decision give here last night at the end of 10 fast rounds by Referee Benny Yanger. The Illinois Boxing Commission, at a meeting, hastily called this afternoon, was offered a resolution by one member whose name was withheld, that the body reverse Yanger and return the title to Tiger Flowers of Atlanta. It probably will be passed late today.

Chicago, Dec. 4—Chicago seethed with a new boxing scandal today.

The decision awarded Mickey Walker the middleweight crown of Tiger Flowers was branded by newspaper writers as "in the bag".

Right down the line, with one exception, sport editors loudly shouted the colored boxer was held up and his headpiece snatched in the dark. While intimations fell about like a tule fog, the Illinois Boxing Commission took not step, but refused to deny a report that the bout might be investigated.

One writer called the decision of Referee Benny Yanger the "biggest steal in Illinois boxing circles since the famous Gans-McGovern fight."

While the trouble was brewing away, young Mickey Walker was enjoying a belated breakfast over which he smiled.

"I do not want the title unless I won it fairly," the new champion said. "I think I did do that. But anyway I will give Flowers a return bout just as soon as he wants it and I don't care where we fight. How about Timbuctoo—ain't that a place in Africa? Anyway, I think I beat Flowers last night and I can do it again."

IMPROVING

Mrs. Helen Kemper, who is quite ill of paralysis and complications at her home, 494 S. Main-st, is reported improved today.

—and only The New Hoover can furnish Positive Agitation, along with sweeping and suction! Positive Agitation is the revolutionary principle which marks the difference between The New Hoover and a "vacuum cleaner."

Sweeping is good. It picks up lint, and threads. Suction is good. It whisks away surface dirt and loosened lint and grit. But neither can reach down into the rug, and loosen the packed-in grit that ruins rugs by cutting away the nap.

Positive Agitation raises the rug on a cushion of air, and flutters it, shaking and tapping out the grit, so that sweeping and suction can do their part.

That is why The New Hoover will remove more than twice as much dirt, in the ordinary cleaning time, as even former Hoovers! It is 131% more efficient.

These statements are made during this Hoover Week—a week during which we are making a strenuous effort to point out the difference between a New Hoover and an ordinary "vacuum cleaner."

May we show you, by really cleaning a rug for you? Won't you telephone us—tell us when to call? Do not feel under any obligation, for there will be none whatever. The New Hoover, complete with Dusting Tools, now only $6.25 down!
